"THE SKY is the limit, and we are not there yet," seems to be the motto of Wall Street.

There are revelations of value, as when General Motors or du Pont show that earnings have increased by tens of millions, and such things drown the voice of conservatives, crying in the wilderness.

Somebody bought nearly seven million shares of stock yesterday.

This country has really A GREAT DEAL OF MONEY and that keeps things going up. New York city yesterday wanted to borrow $55,000,000 at 4¼ per cent.

The issue was oversubscribed, more than three times. President Charles E. Mitchell, of the National City Bank, bought all of the $55,000,000, paying a premium of $461,999.45. This may indicate cheaper money, and that would mean more boom.

Mr. Mitchell foresees what is going to happen. He made tens of millions for his bank buying Liberty bonds, when other financiers didn't think they were worth par.

An intelligent young Irishman traveling for information and opportunity asks: "In leaving New York to travel as far as the Pacific which way would you go?"

There are many good answers to that question.

You could go through the Panama canal and realize that Uncle Sam can do things worth doing.

You could go down through beautiful New Orleans, taking the Southern Pacific to Los Angeles, get an idea of the Gulf States, one of the country's richest regions.

You could go through Arizona, New Mexico, over the Santa Fe or the Rock Island.

Or go over the Rocky Mountains to San Francisco by the Union Pacific.

The inquiring young man is advised to take the northern trip from Chicago to Seattle, see that wonderful city and the great state of Washington, turn north and cross the border to Vancouver, in the land of our Canadian cousins. He should then go south along the Pacific Coast to San Diego, see a thousand miles of wonderful road, scenery, and the future homes of a hundred million more people, the real ocean front of the United States, as the Pacific is the real ocean.

However you go across this country or north and south in it what you see will reward you well.

But DON'T MISS SEATTLE OR LEAVE THE STATE OF WASHINGTON OUT OF YOUR CALCULATIONS.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Hoover on his southern travels will pay especial attention to Cuba and her problems, and not overlook the fact that Cuba is one of our best customers, in addition to being one of our best friends.

Earl D. Babst, head of the American Sugar Refining Company, biggest in the world, reminds you that Cuba is our best tropical customer. And yet, from the Dutch and British East Indies we import nearly twice as much as we import from Cuba, giving the Dutch and British twice as much trade as we give to Cuba, while Cuba buys from us more than twice as much as the Dutch and British East Indies combined buy from us.

We ought to do more business in our own tropics here in the western hemisphere, instead of sending all our money to the Far East.

And incidentally, we should relieve the burden of two cents a pound duty on the sugar that we import from Cuba.

Col. Peter O. Knight of Tampa, Fla., Democrat from birth and able lawyer, shows that Florida's break from the Democratic column, deplored by Democrats, may be a good thing for Florida.

Hitherto, says he, "Democrats have paid no attention to Florida, because they thought it would vote the Democratic ticket anyhow. Republicans paid no attention to Florida, because they felt that Florida would vote the Democratic ticket, no matter what the Republican party did. Now, Florida is definitely a debatable State and will continue so in the future."

Colonel Knight thinks the recent political doings of Florida may persuade Congress to change the inheritance tax law, extremely unjust and harmful to his State.

President Coolidge's son will soon be married to Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of the governor of Connecticut. She and the President's son set a good example to this country which is a little too inclined to self-advertising and notoriety. The young couple will NOT be married in the White House.

Heirs Back on Farm in New Siege

Meredith, N. H., Nov. 21—After having been dramatically ejected from their old homestead here, members of the Keyser family resumed their militant attitude late today, returned to the kitchen of the farmhouse, and swore they would not again leave until put out forcibly.

The return to the farmhouse was a surprise to townspeople, as the Keysers had submitted peacefully to Sheriff Frederick D. Elliott's ejectment, after having originally barricaded themselves in the house on

OFFICERS DESERTED VESTRIS LIFEBOATS, FIRST MATE CHARGES

New York, Nov. 21—A retired United States naval officer took over the questioning at the Federal inquiry into the sinking of the British steamer Vestris today and elicited from the senior surviving officer of the ship that his subordinates ignored his orders when the vessel was sinking.

He brought out the fact that crew members were absent from their stations at the lifeboats, and that women and children passengers were placed in the most dangerously situated boats.

The naval officer who brought these facts out is Capt. E. T. Jessup, American nautical advisor to Commissioner O'Neill, who is presiding at the hearing. The witness he questioned is Frank Johnson, chief officer of the Vestris.

Before Jessup took over the questioning, Johnson had testified under questioning by U. S. Dist. Atty. Tuttle, who is conducting the inquiry, that the release mechanism of lifeboats was "not successful."

Johnson asserted that had he been in command he would not have sent out the S O S any earlier than

W. S. QUINBY, COFFEE MERCHANT, DIES AT 67

W. S. Quinby, president of the tea and coffee house bearing his name, died today at his home, 1563 Beacon st., Brookline, after a short illness.

He was a prominent figure both in the business and musical worlds.

He was the sponsor of the radio broadcasts which weekly carried the Boston Symphony Orchestra to thousands of persons through local stations.

Mr. Quinby was born in Northfield, Vt., 67 years ago.

In 1881 he came to this city, and after working for a dairy products house for several years managed to buy the concern. Later he added tea and coffee to the trade, and was so successful in this enterprise that the dairy products were later sidetracked to the exlusive handling of teas, coffees and spices. His firm opened wholesale branches in other cities.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Gilbert Dunham, of Larchmont, N. Y., and a sister, Mrs. Whitman, of Nashua, N. H.

HOAX BY 'COUNT' MONTE MAY JAIL HIM AGAIN

"Count" Paul Monte, whose late address was Plymouth Jail, may find himself back behind the bars again before many hours. Today Federal Parole Officer McSweeney wired the attorney general in Washington, requesting that his parole be revoked for a hoax he played on a former fellow prisoner.

On October 22, William D. "Okey" O'Connor, former Boston postal clerk, and well known in Greater Boston as a referee in amateur sports received the following telegram:

"Parole signed by Attorney General this morning. R. MacS."

These are the initials of Richard MacSweeny, Federal parole officer.

Sheriff Herman D. Tower believed the telegram as did O'Connor, who is serving a three-year term for larceny from the mails. Sheriff Hammond made out the discharge papers and paid O'Connor what was due him.

Mrs. O'Connor happened to be visiting her husband at the jail. She was overjoyed and hurried to Boston and hired an apartment.

But no parole came from Washington. The sheriff waited. So did O'Connor and his wife. They became suspicious and communicated

3 TEACHERS RESIGN WHEN FORD SCHOOL DOESN'T EXPEL 'BULLY'

By BERT FORD

A mutiny of boy students at the Wayside Inn Trade School, conducted by Henry Ford at South Sudbury, was revealed today when it was learned that three of the four teachers had resigned.

During the mutiny, five of the students who average 16 years of age, ran away from the school. Three were still missing today. All the students are state wards.

According to remaining students of the 30 enrolled in the institution which began to function last March, the mutiny broke out when the students learned of the resignation of the three instructors.

3 BILLION JOBLESS FUND IS URGED BY HOOVER

New Orleans, Nov. 21 (AP)—Governor Ralph O. Brewster of Maine, acting on the request of Herbert Hoover, outlined today before the conference of governors a plan for the creation of a nation-wide construction reserve of $3,000,000,000, to be released in times of overproduction and unemployment.

Governor Brewster recommended that public authorities store up a reserve of construction projects equal to two years' normal expenditure on improvements and release this reserve at times of unemployment.

Such a fund, he said, would be one of the best forms of insurance against national panics.

"These views of the way in which the states and other public authorities may co-operate with the federal government in controlling in some measure construction work for the common good," said the Governor, "are presented to the conference of governors at the request of Herbert Hoover as an authorized exposition of a portion of his program for sta

TRACE GUNS AND LOVE NOTES IN PRISON PROBE

More disclosures of conditions at State prison were made today by investigators, who revealed:

That three loaded revolvers were discovered there just prior to the killing of Turnkey Fred Pfluger.

That guards were found to be writing love letters for the inmates.

That more than one trusty, taking advantage of the confidence that prison officials had in him, acted as whiskey smugglers for the prisoners.

Some of the letters which guards at the dictation of prisoners wrote in endearing terms to girls outside are in the hands of the authorities who launched their extensive investigation as a result of the discovery of a jail-delivery plot.

It is suspected that these letters contained code words which constituted orders for "dope," liquor or other aid.

BOYS AT FORD SCHOOL START MUTINY AS TEACHERS QUIT

The instructors resigned, it is understood, because Earl Boyer, Wayside Inn representative of the automobile king and Ford's overseer in charge of the school, refused to remove the alleged school "bully."

The alleged "bully," a 17-year-old boy from Marlboro, sent to the school on recommendation of a Marlboro town policeman, had practically wrecked the morale of the other students before the situation came to a crisis, according to the revelations.

Fellow-students recited that the Marlboro boy was disliked from the start, because immediately after his arrival he began to assert his authority.

PICKED ON SMALL BOYS

His "assertion" took the form of administering beatings to the younger boys, it is said, and on one occasion he picked up the youngest youth in the school and tossed him into the cold ashes of the breakfast room fireplace, the students declared.

The three boys who were still missing from the school today, according to a report to the State Department of Public Welfare, are Frank Maguire of Worcester, Parker Kovalscok of Lawrence and Joseph Kuriger of Medford.

With them in the flight from school were Bernard Mallory of Tyngsboro and Franklin Davis of North Acton, but these two were back at the institution today.

MANY COMPLAINTS MADE.

Chronologically, the story of the progressing upset at Wayside Inn trade school began with the Marlboro boy's arrival.

Since the school started there have been many complaints made to Boyer about the boy, through several changing regimes of teachers.

The matter came to a head a week ago when the Marlboro boy is alleged to have sent word to one of the instructors that if the instructor wanted him he would have to go into the woods to get him.

The instructor, it is declared, went into the woods and brought the boy before Boyer, who refused to take any action.

TEACHER QUITS

Immediately the instructor proffered his resignation. It was followed by the resignation of a second instructor. Both these instructors were men. Next, a woman instructor resigned.

On last Friday the students, taking the matter into their own hands, voted on whether they wanted the disturber to remain or leave the school. The result was a 29-to-0 vote against his remaining, and it was communicated to Boyer.

He visited the boys and told them, they say, that the disturber would be corrected, and he asked that another vote be taken. This time the boys voted 24 to 5 against his retention.

Henry Ford arrived at Wayside Inn then, but according to the students, he was told nothing of the disturbance by Boyer.

The automobile king left Wayside on Saturday after a two-day visit and a few hours later Boyer informed the instructors that their resignations had been accepted.

On Monday the boys learned of the resignations, and they staged a demonstration, shouting and parading and refusing to go into the school.

According to the boys, ten of their number climbed into an old flivver called "Rattling Mate," and rode around the grounds smoking cigarettes, a forbidden article.

FIVE BOYS MISSING

A few hours later, a checkup of the boys revealed that five were missing.

The students said that that night they remained up in their dormitory until midnight, three hours beyond their allotted bedtime hour.

On Tuesday a representative of the Department of Public Welfare visited the school and talked to the boys, telling them that they must attend school and be orderly.

The remaining instructor, Bushnell, asked for aid in handling the boys, and several employes of Wayside Inn were stationed in the school as guards while classes were resumed.

Today, excepting for the return of two out of the five missing students, the situation remained as on Tuesday.

QUITE A FLURRY, SAYS BOYER.

Overseer Boyer confirmed the story of the mutiny to a Boston Evening American reporter.

"There was quite a flurry on Monday among the boys," he said, "but everything has now subsided and the school is functioning as usual although we lack two teachers and a matron.

"The places of the three members of the staff who left are to be filled at once.

"The boys naturally felt quite badly over the affair because they were attached to the teachers and the teachers were attached to them.

"The whole trouble was due to the fact that the teachers wanted to get rid of one boy and we feel that that boy is more important than the teachers because they are old enough to take care of themselves, but if the boy were turned out now it might wreck his career.

PREFER BOY TO TEACHERS

"We prefer to keep him rather than the teachers, under the circumstances. The mistake made by the teachers was that they permitted the boys to organize against this one boy.

"The boy is rather troublesome and defiant, and quick to quarrel with other boys who cross him, and we feel that that is all the more reason why he should be carefully safeguarded and not rebuked by the boys. He is a boy who is very opinionated, but he shows great promise.

"He wants to be a farmer, and he will be a good one. He is a very good worker, but finds it difficult to associate or work with other boys. He felt that the others were all turned against him and that was a condition we could not stand for here.

"ALL BLOWN OVER NOW."

"If boys who work with him do not do as well as he does, it irritates him. The whole affair is very unfortunate, but it is entirely blown over."

Richard K. Conant, state commissioner of public welfare, commenting on the case, said.

"We have nothing to do with running the school. Mr. Ford pays the bills and the boys of the state have no expense. We have urged the boys to go back and not lose such a fine opportunity.

"However, if the boys had good reason to strike on behalf of the teacers, it shows a good spirit, but as soon as they think it over they must realize that they are jeopardizing a good training."

HUB GIRL TOPS BILL AT LOEW'S STATE

Collette Lyons, a Boston girl who less than three years ago was a student in the Dorchester high school, is this week headlining at Loew's State Theater.

Miss Lyons is a product of this city. Her theatrical career began several seasons ago when she was selected for the annual Loew's Orpheum Frolics. Her contribution to this revue so attracted the attention of Victor Hyde, New York producer, that he urged her to continue in her stage work and seek a professional engagement in New York city.

A month later Miss Lyons appeared on Broadway, where she met Joe Weston, well-known musical comedy star, and together formed the team of Weston and Lyons.

Pet Name Restores Memory

Her pet name, spoken by her brother after he recognized her photograph in the Boston Evening American, broke the strange spell which blotted out all memory of her identity, according to the City Hospital "amnesia victim," who is 18-year-old Rose Arnold of 1412 Blue Hill ave., Dorchester.

The girl was today transferred to the neurology department of the hospital for treatment of what the doctors believe to be a super-nervous condition, following emotional hysteria.

"I remember that I left my home crying bitterly because I felt sad and discouraged, not especially because of an argument with my brother, Richard, but because of an accumulation of things," Miss Arnold said today.

"I tried to walk that feeling off and the last I recall is not being able to find my way home.

"That frightened me terribly. The next clear memory is of Richard calling me that name 'Rahke,' used only by my family, and then I fainted. I am weak and shaky but want to go home."

She may be allowed to go home tomorrow.

ALMEIDA GIVES NEW DIVORCE TESTIMONY

Accompanied by a Spanish woman, Pedro de Almeida, former consul for Spain in Boston, visited the apartment of a business associate, according to testimony today in Middlesex Probate Court, where Mrs. Sarah E. de Almeida is suing for divorce.

This story was told by Hrand Kazaz, who admitted that he himself sued de Almeida for $10,000 and tied up all his bank accounts.

Before this witness was heard, de Almeida, testifying for himself against his wife's charges of mental cruelty, denied having visited Kazaz's apartment either with or without a woman companion.

Kazaz began by testifying, under questioning by J. Weston Allen, one of Mrs. de Almeida's attorneys, that "sometimes there was and sometimes there wasn't" liquor in the business office of de Almeida. The latter had testified there never was any liquor there.

Q.—You heard Mr. de Almeida testify that he did not go to your apartment and that he did not ask you for the key on the day just preceding the one on which he left for New Hampshire. Is that true?

A.—It is not true.

J.—What did he do?

A.—It was on a Friday. On Saturday he went to New Hampshire. We were in the office. He said, "Can you give me the key to your apartment?"

I was living on Jacques st. at the time and I was going some place. I got to my apartment between 8 and 9 o'clock. It was Aug. 7, 1923.

I went into the kitchen and was sitting there when I heard the front door opened. I saw Mr. de Almeida coming in with a woman. They went into my sitting room. She was a Spanish woman.

I returned to the kitchen and passed an hour or an hour and a half. Then Mr. de Almeida came into the kitchen.

The witness was going to continue but he was interrupted by objections from the husband's attorney, which were upheld by Judge Leggat, who explained to Atty. Allen that Kazaz was called only to attempt to contradict testimony by de Almeida; descriptive testimony was, therefore, not permissible.

Q.—Did you see them leave together? A.—I did not see the woman going, but Mr. de Almeida stayed with me.

Atty. William H. Irish (counsel for de Almeida)—What is your real name? A.—Kazazian.

TIED UP ACCOUNTS.

Q.—Are you the one who sued Mr. de Almedia for $10,000 and tied up all his bank accounts? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you say in your suit first that you were a clerk and then change it later to read "silent partner?" A.—My lawyer handled it.

Q.—Did not James de Almedia accuse you of dishonesty and discharge you in December, 1924. A.—No. I have proof he didn't.

Q.—Well, you left in December, 1924? A.—Yes.

Q.—Because James de Almedia discharged you? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Aren't you here, not to testify for Mrs. de Almedia, but to do harm to Mr. de Almedia? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Isn't it true you read about this case and walked into court and offered to testify? A.—No, sir, I was summoned here.

Strike Up the Band! We Now Behold the Trained Oysters

Mt. Vernon, Ia., Nov. 21—The educated fleas have rivals—the trained oysters of Prof. W. E. A. Slaght, head of the psychology department of Cornell College here.

Slaght declares that after a month's regular feeding on cornmeal and water, some oysters which he packed in seaweed would jump over on their backs and open their mouths like hungry birds when meal time came.

Jarring of the basement stair door, he says, caused the oysters to open their jaws and become attentive.

Slaght admits his training process had one handicap—the oysters lived only five or six weeks.

OUTSTANDING FEATURES OF DESPERATE GUNMEN'S PLAN TO FLEE PRISON

Stephen Hoppe, serving a life term for murder, is the most guarded convict within the walls of Charlestown Prison today. It was Hoppe's keen mind that engineered the wholesale break plot that was revealed when Charles Trippi killed Turnkey Pfluger in an unsuccessful attempt to escape. Seven "long term" prisoners, three of them lifers, were involved in the plot for a wholesale delivery. Hammers and revolvers were to be used and life was to have been no object in effecting escape. The plotters have been transferred to other cells and will be kept in what amounts to solitary confinement the rest of their lives. Numerous other charges concerning conditions within the State Prison are now being probed, including one that a prisoner conducted a big "shark loan" business.

TRACING GUNS IN STATE PRISON PLOT INQUIRY

friend. The prisoner is a married man. Efforts are being made to ascertain the source of the help which he and others received in dispatching these missives.

The loaded guns which were found at the prison were handed to officials by inmates who thereby gained consideration in the matter of early paroles but who insisted that their names must be kept from other prisoners, because of fear of violence.

TRAILING DOWN GUNS

Nothing definite has yet been learned as to how these revolvers were smuggled into the prison wings, nor how Charles Trippi, Jr., the convict who shot down Turnkey Pfluger, came into possession of a fourth weapon.

Prison records disclose that among the trusties who proved reliable was one who gained considerable notoriety at the time of his trial and sentence, but who apparently was the last word in decorum and good conduct within the institution's walls.

He was finally found to be running liquor into the prison in quantities large enough to supply a majority of the inmates desirous of obtaining bootleg products, and was transferred from work in the prison yards, where he had opportunity to act as rum-smuggler, to a less desirable job in the shops.

It was further revealed that grapes had to be barred from the prison because inmates who ordered them for their holiday menu used them to make wine.

That the order to keep Trippi, Stephen Hoppe, Leo Nolin, Philip Cronin and John Ferrin—prisoners who figured in the jail delivery plot—confined in cells for the rest of their lives is no idle threat of prison officials, although such punishment is frowned on at many State institutions, was emphasized today by disclosure that two men have been subjected to this discipline already for three years.

James Luna and John Hamilton, alias John Rickfels, have been "in plant," as this confinement is called, since December, 1925. They are not allowed to leave their cells to work, attend movies or mingle with other prisoners in any way whatsoever.

Luna and Hamilton attacked two prison officers during religious services. Several months later they tried again to escape. Jesse Pomeroy, who has served longer in prison than any man living, totaling more than half a century, was moved from one of the dreaded Cherry Hill cells so that it could be used as the life-tomb of one of these desperadoes.

Three investigations of conditions are under way, one by Dist. Atty. Foley, a second by prison officials and the third by Commissioner of Correction Sanford Bates, and one result, it is deemed likely, will be a shakeup of the staff at the prison.

A still for making moonshine was uncovered in one cell. Another discovery was that a trusty was habitually slipping out to a kitchen barroom on Chapman st. and returning drunk.

PREYED ON INMATES

Prisoners were under the influence of drugs when called to the administration building or questioning by Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle, it is said.

A prison guard is reported to have waxed affluent through selling radio parts to inmates at exorbitant prices.

In addtion, radio cabinets, which are themselves not allowed at the prison, are believed to have been used to convey guns, ammunition and "dope" to the convicts. Even a rigid search failed to bring to light drugs that were being smuggled in and this has long been one of the most baffling problems confronting prison heads.

with Mr. MacSweeney, later forwarding the telegram.

The Department of Justice then stepped into the picture and secured the original telegram. The handwriting was identified as "Count" Monte's. Today he was taken to the federal building.

Confronted with the original telegram in the office of Asst. Dist. Atty. Spalding, Monte admitted he had sent it as a joke. Then Parole Officer MacSweeney, on advice of the district attorney, wired Washington requesting that Monte's parole be revoked.

OFFERS KIN $150 IN BLAST DEATH

The alleged attempt of an insurance claim agent to settle for $150 in the death of one of the victims of the Preble-Eaton Box Toe Co. explosion at Lynn was disclosed today when the mayor of Lynn sent letters to relatives of all of the dead warning them not to sign any insurance papers.

The mayor advised that the next of kin of the victims first see either him or an agent of the State board handing workmen's compensation.

Usually, the mayor said, the price for such a death in industry is between $4000 and $5000.

He said his secretary had been informed of the attempt to settle for $150 the claim of a 17-year-old boy.

HUNT WIFE, 35, AND YOUTH, 19, IN BOSTON

Boston police were asked today to search for Mrs. Freda L. Jones, 35, of Plymouth st., Bridgewater, and Clyde Lothrop, 19, of Washington st., East Bridgewater, who were reported to have left home the same day.

Mrs. Jones took with her joint savings of between $400 and $500 which she and her husband were planning to use to pay off a mortgage on their home, according to a statement to the police by the husband, Robert M. Jones.

Jones and young Lothrop engaged in a fist fight at a band concert last summer and court action involving both of them resulted, police say. Jones reported his wife has been missing since November 14 and his efforts to find her have been without success.

BRIEF WEDDED LIFE ENOUGH FOR HER

Grace Brinkley, youthful ingenue in "White Lilacs," playing in New York, admitted she is to sue Arthur Brown for divorce. They were married in February, after three weeks' courtship. She blames rivals, but doesn't name them.

$1000 Reward in Quincy 'Lie' Plot

Detractors using the telephone anonymously have caused a furore in Quincy, it was learned today, through offer of a $1000 reward for arrest of the persons responsible for damaging statements against James Robbie and his son, J. Everett Robbie.

Father and son head the Quincy Coal Company, and they declare that because of the poison-tongued telephone user, they have lost between $10,000 and $15,000 in orders.

It is understood also that the mayoralty candidacy of a resident has been damaged by the same story tellers and that a bank official claims to have suffered the loss of a number of depositors.

The stories circulated were relative to a Halloween party held by the Neighborhood Club, and reported that Mr. and Mrs. J. Everett Robbie, with three other persons, attended the party in costume meant to ridicule Governor and Mrs. Alfred E. Smith.

All those present at the party have refuted the stories and a group picture fails to show any costume that could be construed as one of ridicule.

ACTION NEAR IN PROBE ON AUTO INSURANCE

The state's investigation of widespread fraud, involving lawyers and doctors, in connection with claims on compulsory auto insurance policies is now near an end and action may soon be taken, it was revealed today.

F. Delano Putnam, assistant attorney-general, who was given the task of handling this inquiry, made it plain today that although there has been nothing to make public for weeks the inquiry has most assuredly not been abandoned.

He pointed out that the sifting of evidence in a case of this nature is such a tremendous task that in New York an entire year was consumed preparing for court action.

Several hundred persons have been interviewed and countless pages of paper evidence have been thoroughly looked into and followed up.

Action from Governor Fuller was being awaited today on a request of John J Cummings, recently defeated candidate for Governor in the Democratic primaries, to call a special legislative session to settle once and for all the auto insurance problem.

Cummings suggested that either the state take over this form of insurance or that all car owners be grouped in one mutual company managed by a board of directors under the supervision of the insurance commissioner.

SUES COUNT FOR $8400 FOR FINDING HIM A WIFE

Budapest, Hungary, Nov. 21 (AP)—Marriage of Count Nicholas Szechenyi to Eva Goodman has been followed by a suit by Peter Korbuly an acquaintance of the Count, asking for $8400 which Korbuly charges the Count promised to pay him for bringing the couple together. The Count denied the charges.

Count Szechenyi is a scion of one of the oldest Hungarian families and is a relative of Count Laszlo Szechenyi, Hungarian Minister to Washington. The bride of Count Nicholas is an Orthodox Jewish girl. Her family is reputed wealthy.

Sulphur Stops Grain Rust

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 21 (AP)—The Federal Department of Agriculture in an official report says that sulphur dusting experiments conducted last summer in the grain fields of western Canada have established beyond doubt the effectiveness of this method of cereal rust control.

Local Pilot Takes Commercial Plane Up 10,000 Feet

Not content with pushing a Monocoupe up to 15,000, Charlie Emerson, pilot for Skyways, Inc., took a Whirlwind motored Stearman up 10,000 in a workout prior to his proposed altitude attempt for commercial planes.

Emerson declares he can beat the New England record, now held by Burr Leyson, of 24,500 feet, set at Barnard Field, Hartford, in 1922. It is understood that he will make the attempt within a week.

PILOT AVERTS HUB AIR CRASH

The skill of Lieut. Adolph M. Backstrom, chief student instructor of the Boston Airport Corporation, combined with the practical completion of the new runway at the airport, today prevented a Travelair plane from being cracked up when the pilot made a forced landing with a student.

Lieut. Backstrom was giving the student, Arthur MacDougall, instructions in landing on the old runway. MacDougall had brought the ship down and taken off again, when, with the plane only 40 feet in the air and within 300 feet of the east end of the old runway, the camshaft broke and the engine stalled.

Seizing the controls, Backstrom sideslipped the ship down to about two feet from the ground, then leveled her off and pancaked on to the new runway, setting the plane down without injury.

FROZEN SOUTH WAITS

Intrepid Wilkins-Hearst Explorers

And now there came both mist and snow
And it grew wondrous cold;
And ice, mast-high, came floating by,
As green as emerald.

The ice was here, the ice was there,
The ice was all around;
It cracked and growled, and roared and howled,
Like noises in a swound.

HOOVER PLAN FOR JOBLESS REVEALED

bilizing the prosperity of the United States.

"In requesting the presentation of this project to the conference of governors, Mr. Hoover emphasized the importance of establishing co-operation between federal, state and municipal governments in accordance with the proposals outlined at the time of the unemployment conference in 1922."

Organization for prosperity, he said, is the next lesson America may track to the nations of the world.

The Governor said that America emulates Tantalus, the mythological personage who lived in the presence of plenty, but never could touch it.

"Such conditions," he said, "constitute a tragedy and a travesty upon the organizing genius of American business men."

"With an annual expenditure of seven billions upon construction, America is in a position to stabilize prosperity to a most remarkable extent," he added. "Public authority spends more than a billion and a half, with this we are here primarily concerned.

WILL AVERT PANICS.

"Private business will soon follow such practical demonstration as the Government may make since the great commercial interests of the country have the most vital stake. This may apply not only to construction, but to the renewal and extension of capital facilities of every sort.

"It is the considered recommendation of the one who has received the overwhelming mandate of the American people to guide and guard their progress in the next four years that a construction reserve may prudently be accumulated in time of plenty against the lean year that is to come.

"This involves simply the provisions of the necessary funds or credit to be released when indexes shall indicate the need and such designation of projects as may commend itself to the authority concerned."

Governor Brewster told the governors that no infringement of legislative prerogatives was contemplated, because no project could be carried out except as the Legislature might direct, although the rapidity of the construction program within defined limits could be accelerated or retarded to synchronize with national and local needs.

OLYMPIC GETS HARD TOSSING BY GALE

New York, Nov. 21 (INS)—Buffeted and tossed about like a cork by the hurricane that swept the English coast, the Olympic of the White Star Line limped into her pier today from Cherbourg and Southampton 16 hours late.

The ship clearly showed the effects of her stormy voyage, characterized by her master, Capt. W. H. Parker, as "one of the toughest trips we have experienced in many years."

One of the staircases was smashed to bits, 30 feet of the rail at the forecastle head was carried away; the steel and wood promenade deck door was battered by the sea; the steel hatch bar was twisted as if it were a hairpin; the port lights were smashed and the ventilators carried away.

The Olympic carried 720 passengers. Most of them returned badly shaken by the rolling and pitching of the ship as she was tossed about at the mercy of the violent storm. Great waves broke over her decks as she floundered in the gales that lasted the entire voyage.

"On Friday as we came out to sea," Capt. Parker said, "we ran into the same hurricane that was lashing the English coast. Saturday we hove to for an hour to permit the seamen to stow away the wreckage forward.

3 THUGS COWER 2 BANKERS AND FLEE WITH $30,000

Dayton, O., Nov. 21 (AP)—Forcing D. A. Blair, manager, and Harry Schmidt, his assistant, to lie face down on the floor, three bandits today robbed the East Fifth Street Branch of the City National Bank of approximately $30,000.

Mrs. Etta Overpeck, a customer, was bound in a chair by the robbers, who were unmasked. They escaped in an automobile.

GOVERNOR'S COUNCIL IS COUNTING BALLOTS

The official canvas of the votes cast in the State and national election was started today by the Governor's Council at the State House, in accordance with the provisions of the statutes. Because of the recount underway in the vote cast for Governor, Lieut.-Gov. Frank G. Allen, acting Governor, and Governor-elect, is taking no part in the count.

Wins Hot Fight

NAMED FOR MAYOR

Andrew A. Casassa won the Republican nomination for mayor of Revere, and that is regarded as good as elected.

HAVERHILL CAR WRECK FOILED

Haverhill, Nov. 21—The lives of a car crew and several passengers were saved here when George Jackson, a Boston & Maine employe, discovered an attempt to wreck an interstate trolley from Plaistow, N. H., and flagged the aproaching car.

Jackson, on his way home from work, found a half-ton of rocks and old ties piled on the trolley tracks between Main st. and North ave. At the same time he saw approaching the Plaistow car, operated by Motorman Arthur Smith. Jackson ran out waving his arms and was seen by Smith, who brought his car to a stop in time.

Assisted by several passengers, Jackson and Smith removed the obstruction and the ca rproceeded into the city. Because of the amount of rocks and ties placed on the track the police believe several persons were involved in the attempt to wreck the car.

Superintendent Bartlett of the Massachusetts Northern Street Railway reported the matter to the Haverhill police.

CASASSA WINS IN RACE FOR MAYOR

Andrew A. Casassa, former State Senator, won the Republican nomination for mayor of Revere, following that city's most turbulent political campaign, and he will probably be the next mayor.

In the Everett primaries the two leaders who will fight it out for the mayoralty at the final election were James A. Roche, the incumbent, and Lester D. Chisholm, a former mayor.

Mayor John D. Devir, seeking a fifth term, led in the Malden primaries, with Austin H. Rooy second, and the voters will have to choose between these two at the election.

The Republican nomination in Revere is generally equivalent to election, while in Malden and Everett the primaries are non-partisan.

Casassa will be opposed at the election, December 11, by Atty. Michael F. Shaw, who had no contest in the Democratic primaries.

More than 10,000 votes were cast and it was not until shortly before 6 o'clock this morning that City Clerk Albert J. Brown received the Casassa received 3955 votes against 3545 for William H. Keevey, the present Revere city treasurer. Murray received 2431 and Timothy Kelley, a former Revere police officer received less than 200 votes.

For Councilman at Large the following were nominated—Charles H. White, present head of the Revere City Council; George E. Lund, William H. Gallagher and James F. Robertson. The ward councilman nominated were—Ward 1, Fred Reinstein; Ward 2, Louis Glixman; Ward 3, Michael Morelli; Ward 4, Walter Sweeney; Ward 5, Richard Armstrong.

James M. O'Brien, former deputy superintendent of the public works department, received the Republican nomination over William A. Barrett, chief clerk in the public works department, by 81 votes, while Barrett won the Democratic nomination over O'Brien by six votes. Both will oppose each other on December 11.

The successful nominees for the school committee were: Charles M. Dreyer, Mrs. Fannie Conrad Janvrin, William H. Smith and Mrs. Elma A. Burns. Mrs. Mary E. Strong received the Democratic nomination, unopposed.

Mayor Roche of Everett garnered 4894 votes in the primary and Chisholm, the second man, tallied 3293. There was a long list of candidates, but only one other, Fred M. Colby, who got 2311 votes, figured in the race.

HINCHCLIFFE IN 'TALK' TO WIFE

ed Press today, Mrs. Hinchliffe asserted that many messages containing conclusive proof they were from her missing husband have been received by her telling of his last heroic adventure. The communications revealed, she said, that he and the Hon. Elsie Mackay plunged into the ocean within sight of the Azores after a furious storm.

THANKS CONAN DOYLE.

"I got free of the machine," she quoted her husband as saying. "Miss Mackay went down with the machine."

Mrs. Hinchliffe said communication with her husband was first established through an ouija board worked with a woman medium. This was confirmed through a woman medium in a trance. Mrs. Hinchliffe acknowledged the good offices of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle in "conversatnons" with the missing airman.

Mrs. Hinchcliffe said her husband told her that after leaving the Irish coast at 2 p. m. he flew west northwest at 80 to 90 miles an hour for eight hours. The weather was not bad, but there were dense clouds. For the next two hours he increased his speed to near 100 miles and at midnight encountered bad weather.

She quoted his account as continuing:

"We got right into the force of the storm. The gale was terrible. It broke one strut of the machine and another strut cracked. The canvas was tearing. One plug in the engine was missing.

PLANE IS WRECKED.

"The more I went on in the direction of the North American continent the more I got into the storm. I knew at midnight it would be impossible to reach America and then thought of the Leeward Islands. (He explained later that he meant islands situated to the leeward, namely the Azores). Therefore, at midnight, I deliberately changed my course to due south. I felt the more I went south the more I should be able to get out of the storm.

"We were tossed about by these awful whirlwinds in all directions. At 3 a. m. the machine came down on the water within sight of land, the uttermost rocks of the Azores. I was hoping that the tide would carry the machine on the rocks but instead it was carried farther away. I got free of the machine. Miss Mackay went down with the machine.

"It had been my intention to reach the islands but it was impossible. I trust in the near future some parts of the machine will be found near these rocks."

SAFE ROBBERS GET $11 IN CHARLESTOWN BREAKS

Two safes in the building at 40 Alford st., Charlestown, were forced open during the night, according to a report made today at the Charlestown police.

The safe-breakers got $11 for their work. Entrance to the building, which is located a short distance from Sullivan sq., on the way to the Malden bridge, was made by way of a rear window.

The thieves gathered nothing in the office of the Hanover Bottling Co., on the first floor, but in the office of the Textile Manufacturing Co. secured $11 in money.

OLD SCHOOL FRIENDS MEET AT DEB PARTY, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Miss Frances Rankin Keeps Her Classmate Promise to Miss Clarissa Mayo to Attend Latter's Brilliant "Coming Out" Function at Algonquin Club

NO DOUBT WHEN MISS FRANCES RANKIN AND MISS CLARISSA MAYO shared schoolday seclusions at Versailles and New York they promised one another with all faith and girlish intensity, each to attend the other's coming out party. Last evening Miss Rankin kept that schoolgirl promise. She was one of the very particular out-of-town guests dining at the Algonquin Club and dancing at the Hotel Somerset, in honor of Miss Mayo's debutante celebration.

Mrs. George Mayo was hostess for the Terpsichorean part of the evening, and the prandial affair had the debutante's uncle, William H. Mayo, as most delightful of hosts.

BOTH GIRLS WERE TUTORED in French "verbs" at Miss Finch's in New York, and then put their knowledge to the test of practice at Miss Finch's foreign establishment for young ladies, in Versailles. Now they are tasting together some of the heady entertainment furnished by a first winter out. And wearing attractive frocks, the like of which may be found ad infinitum in the wardrobe of every well conditioned debutante. Last evening Miss Mayo's confection for her party was taffeta and Miss Rankin's a velvet.

CRISP AS NOVEMBER'S BREEZE FRISKING DOWN THE AVENUE was Miss Mayo's taffeta. With its scalloped hem and its unstudied simplicity it might have been one of the most charming frocks in the entire trousseau. It had exactly that right note, the something of jeune fille allied to dashing color, both elements quite indispensable when the gathering together of a proper "Coming Out" wardrobe is in consideration. Miss Rankin's frock was richly tinted, and poised on one shoulder was the moment's mode in corsages—a few fragrant blossoms tricked out with tinsel ribbon, and not the tight little bouquet in its frilly paper holder.

MISS RANKIN HAILS FROM NEW YORK. FROM FURTHER west of Broadway came Miss Caroline Robinson, whose home is in Minneapolis; Miss Margaret Raff of Cincinnati, and Miss Helen Siewers of Hartsdale, to take in some of the current week's parties for the buds, and specially to shine in the special guest coterie, of the dinner and the dance. For the usher squad, a good-looking set of young men properly turned out for their formal duties. Philip Klein Brown was leader, and he had in his staff youths by now quite adept in the gentle art of getting the dowagers seated and the debutantes dancing.

MESSRS. ALFRED BELL, Malcolm Bigelow, John Bishop, Thomas P. Field, George Grant, Albert H. Harris, William F. Mayo, Charles Raymond, Dwight Sage, Hiram Sibley, Lawrence Soule, J. Lindsay Ware, Harper Woodward and R. Bevan Woodward made up the list of tail-coated young gentlemen. The girls at the dinner were Miss Janet Murchie, Miss Alison Towle, Miss Rosamond Gardiner, Miss Elizabeth Morison, Miss Elizabeth Coolidge, Miss Susan Clymer and Miss Abby Beveridge, these in addition to the foursome of out-of-towners already elaborated upon. The list also included Mrs. Philip K Brown and Mrs. William Mayo.

HOW INDELIBLY HAS THE debutante pressed her slender imprint on the current hours. And how brighteyed and undaunted she assails a formidable social program that would give the most experienced diner out a pause and cause the most seasoned campaigner a hesitant consideration or two. Three dances all in a row! That is the present program. This evening the Young Set directs itself and its motors to Cambridge, there to dance in honor of Miss Helen Gilman Nichols, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Gilman Nichols. Miss Nichols has the pleasant prospect of going down to Baltimore later to be presented at the Bachelors' Cotillion, an honor that does not fall to the lot of every debutante.

THE HANDICRAFT WORKERS of Peterborough invade Boston's busy shopping centers today, tomorrow and Friday, and set up the fruit of their crafts at Chandler Shop in Temple pl. Mrs. Horace Morison, Mrs. George Swinnerton Parker, Mrs. George Edward Clement and Mrs. Wilbur S. Grant engineer the affair and have for sale colorful things that suit any season—basketry, Italian cut work, embroideries, rugs and knitted things—but which they particularly designate as "Christmas," and quite fittingly, too. Everyone has a list in the making and the something different is always eagerly sought.

MISS WINIFRED THORNDIKE is a debutante of the season on whom a new title is just bestowed. She is auntie to the tiny Delafield daughter born to her sister, the former Miss Helen Thorndike, now Mrs. Charles Delafield of New York. The little girl's advent brings to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hill Thorndike grandparent honors. The Thorndike-Delafield wedding was brilliantly done in Emmanuel Church a year ago.

And Thorndike brilliance will be spread over the present season by parties in Miss Winifred's honor—she being a beauty of the bud coterie and having many a highly placed relative to do the festive thing for her.

$7692 SPENT BY WALSH IN ELECTION

U. S. Senator David I. Walsh received $7692.19 and spent that amount in the November 6 election, a return filed today with Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook disclosed.

The Democratic national committee contributed $3000 of the total amount, $1000 of which was turned over to the Democratic state committee.

John F. Malley, defeated Democratic candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, another return showed, received $700 in contributions and spent $1576.26.

The Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League, which was supposed to have taken an active part in the election, received and spent $7835.49. Approximately 1000 persons contributed, the amounts ranging from $1 to $100.

Mayor Andrew J. (Bossy) Gillis of Newburyport, another return revealed, spent $204.75 in the sticker campaign for election to the House of Representatives. With the exception of $1, the return indicated, the entire amount was contributed by Gillis.

COOLIDGE THANKSGIVING PLANS STILL INDEFINITE

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Plans for President Coolidge's Thanksgiving vacation in Virginia are still indefinite and subject to change.

It is probable the President and Mrs. Coolidge will make a brief visit to the football game at Charlottesville on Thanksgiving Day between the Universities of Virginia and North Carolina. Thanksgiving Day luncheon will be served at the home of President Alderman of the University of Virginia.

FINE PROGRAM WELL DONE BY FRIEDBERG

By MOSES SMITH

Carl Friedberg made one of his rare Boston appearances in a piano concert at Jordan Hall before a very enthusiastic audience of good size. It seems strange that he does not play here oftener, for he is a musician and artist of the first rank.

At first impression Mr. Friedberg is one of the heaven-storming pianists of a generation almost extinct. He can hit the piano with terrific force—and still be grand. His left hand is punishing, in the manner of Josef Hofmann. He builds up climaxes of tremendous fury in a few seconds.

But he can also be very poetic. Melodies in Chopin's music were beautifully played. The delicate passage-work in the scherzo of Chopin's B minor sonata was traced in the finest of lines. And above all, this man is a great musician. How skilfully he played the opening of the sonata, so that the listener scarcely detected the measures in which poor Chopin was treading musical water. The entrance of the second theme was so beautifully prepared that the structure of the movement seemed to be the work of Beethoven,

STUDIED IN BOSTON, SANG BEFORE CROWNED HEADS

Bigger Sask., Nov. 21 (AP)—Miss M. Helen O'Reilly, soprano, who sang before the late Queen Victoria and other crowned heads of Europe, is dead here. Her health undermined by influenza during the World War epidemic, Miss O'Reilly was forced to end her staging career. She was born in Ottawa 65 years ago and studied at the New England Conservatory of Music at Boston.

TRUMPS PARTNER'S ACE; BEATEN; ASKS DIVORCE

Chicago, Nov. 21 (AP)—Some folks would say that trumping a partner's ace in a bridge game is justification even for manslaughter. The Superior Court is now asked to determine if it is cause for divorce.

Mrs. Virginia Chapman Schmidt, married to the son of a wealthy Chicago architect, has filed the suit, declaring that because she laid down a trump on her husband-partner's ace in a bridge game, he beat her.

"Suitable alimony" is sought.

3 WOMEN TO DIE IN PARIS FOR MURDERING CHILDREN

Paris, Nov. 21 (AP)—Three women were in prison today sentenced to death for the murder of children not their own. The general impression was that they would escape the guillotine under commutations of sentence to life imprisonment by President Doumergue.

Blanche Fabre, 37, was sentenced to death for the murder of her nine year-old step-son, into whose body she plunged a knife 16 times.

Caesarian Operation Seen in French Films

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Medical circles were keenly interested today in moving pictures from France of two Caesarian operations—the first of the kind ever shown here.

A group of noted surgeons sat in the ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel and calmly watched the delicate operations which were filmed in minute detail. These are part of four films sent here from France in exchange for scientific moving pictures sent abroad from America.

The films will make it possible for medical students in small community clinics to witness famous surgical feats performed elsewhere.

ANOTHER NIGHT CLUB IN N. Y. TO BE PADLOCKED

New York, Nov. 21 (INS)—A federal padlock was to click today on the Twentieth Century Club, caught in the government's campaign.

The latest to feel the effect of the drive is the Beaux Arts Club, against which a padlock decree was signed by Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard. Decrees or fines also were entered against 26 resorts outside of New York City. Proceedings are pending against a dozen or more clubs, including the famous Salon Royale, where Texas Guinan holds forth.

BLUE SKY BAN ON SELLING OF MANOR STOCK

Acting under the blue sky law, the State Department of Public Utilities today placed a ban on the sale of securities on the Devonshire Manor, Inc., a huge project for a playground for wealthy and fashionable people in Marion, overlooking Buzzards Bay.

In their finding thee ommissioners said the sale of securities "would result in fraud."

This action was taken. It aws said, when the corporation failed to furnish, on request, the amount of money taken in together with the names of those wrom whom it was received.

The Devonshire Manor, Inc., was first attacked last month when charges were filed by Atty. Louis C. Gobron of Tremont st., representing archotects.

He threatened court action on the ground of alleged violation of contract which he maintained the club made with his architect clients.

Benjamin C. Tower of Milk st., realty broker and former president of the Devonshire Manor Club, announced that he and all other Boston directors and members of the board of governors had resigned and that he had asked for an accounting for Frank G. Macomber, Jr., of New York, treasurer.

AVERS SKILTON GOT NO PART OF $10,000

Former Attorney General Arthur K. Reading in Middlesex criminal court today, appearing as counsel for Raymond N. "Raymie" Skilton, said he would show that Skilton never received one penny of the $10,000 borrowed from the Framingham National Bank, and for the alleged larceny of which Skilton is on trial.

When the prosecution rested Reading told the court that he would show that Skilton was urged by a committee of creditogs of the Nobscot Shoe Co., the Framingham Board of Trade and President Fred S. Oaks of the Framingham National Bank, to take over the shoe company and operate it. He refused because of losses in the leather market in 1921.

The Board of Trade and the bank, Reading said, were anxious to keep the shoec ompany in Framingham and later Skilton became asignee of thee ompany. He would show, he declared, that Oaks, principal government witness against Skilton, suggested that Skilton hororw money from the bank to run the business and that he did borrow certain sums, including the $10,000.

Reading said he would show that when the matter of the $10,000 loan came up President Oaks said he wanted a note for the benefit of his own directors and suggested that it be Skilton's own note and that he went over Skilton's assets.

Among these were many unpaid accounts which, Reading told the court, Oaks asked Sullivan to include as assets, as well as property in Skilton's wife's name, which was done, so that the loan would appear favorable on the bank's books.

Reading said he would show that not any of the money went to Skilton, but that it was used for the Nobscot Shoe Co. Skilton is expected to take the stand in his own defense.

COLDS Ended in a Day!

Take HILL'S CASCARA-QUININE. Stops a cold in one day because it does the four necessary things in one: (1) Breaks up the cold, (2) Checks the fever, (3) Opens the bowels, (4) Tones the system.

RED BOX—All Druggists

Once his Son mimicked Him

May and he laughed at the time—Junior was such a perfect little actor.

"I'm Daddy, Mother—Hard day at the office today. Feel all done in and got a pile of work to get through, too!"

Afterward he wondered if he really gave the impression of being such a bad sport—always complaining about his work. He realized, of course, that poisons bottled up in the intestines ruined dispositions and undermined health. Yet he'd had such a hard time getting himself in shape with ordinary laxatives; slow-acting health foods—harsh cathartics . . .

Feen-a-mint is different!

It's just like a bit of delicious mint-flavored chewing gum. You don't swallow it hastily, like other laxatives—you chew it!

The chewing releases Feen-a-mint's wonderful cleansing principle so gradually, so naturally that it acts with unbelievable gentleness—yet sweeps out the clogging poisons from your whole system. In 3 to 4 hours (or by morning, if you take it at bedtime) it freshens you from top to toe!

It won't torture you with griping pains. It won't disturb digestion. It won't enslave you to laxative pills. Get Feen-a-mint at your druggist's today.

LIFEBOAT RELEASE MECHANISM BROKE ON DOOMED VESTRIS

FIRST MATE TELLS OF WOMEN AND BABES 'FIRST TO DIE'

did Capt. Carey who went down with the ship. Johnson said he had believed the Vestris would be kept afloat despite her heavy list, as the sea was calming down.

As Jessup interrogated Johnson, Capt. Henry McConkey, British nautical advisor at the hearing, sat on the other side of Commissioner O'Neill, silently listening to the exchange of questions and answers and watching the witness closely.

The two advisors were appointed at the suggestion of the British government. The British consul-general selected Capt. McConkey, who is marine superintendent of the Cunard Line, and Tuttle picked Capt. Jessup.

BOAT CHAINS BROKE

Johnson, who testified at length earlier in the inquiry into the sinking of the Vestris off the Virginia Capes nine days ago, with a loss of 110, was recalled as the first witness at today's session.

"Was there any release mechanism for the lifeboats on the Vestris?" asked U. S. Dist. Atty. Tuttle.

"Yes," Johnson replied. "There was a handle which, when pulled down, was supposed to release the boats."

Q.—Was any effort made to use this device? A.—Yes.

Q.—How did it work? A.—It was not successful. In two instances chains attached to the release handles broke.

Johnson testified that he knew of no instance in which the releasing apparatus was successfully used.

Q.—Was there a motor lifeboat? A.—Yes, with a capacity of 30.

Q.—Why did so few get into it? A.—There were so few about at the time. That boat was launched from the starboard side.

HAD NO ENGINEER

Q.—There has been testimony that the engine of the motorboat did not run. Do you know why? A.—I suppose because there was no engineer in it.

Q.—Was any engineer designated to that boat in case of disaster? A.—I think it was the second engineer, who went down with the ship.

Q.—At 7:30 Sunday night the ship took a heavy lurch; did she come back? A.—No. Her cargo shifted.

Q.—After the list increased, what did you do? A.—I was working on the half door that leaked.

Q.—Do you mean to tell me that enough water came through that half door as waves struck it occasionally to make the ship list? A.—No.

Q.—With the list increasing, is it not a fact that the ship was in danger until the list was stopped? A.—Yes.

ORDERS IGNORED

Q.—Then did it not occur to you, as chief officer, that it was your first duty to find out what was causing that list? A.—I tried to find out.

Johnson said he reported to Capt. Carey at 4 o'clock Monday morning, the day the Vestris sank, that there was water in the bunkers and an investigation was made, but the cause of the leak was not found.

Wins Suit

Miss May Murray of Walnut st., Malden, beauty specialist, who was awarded $800 damages in Middlesex Superior Court when a jury found she had been injured to that extent in a fall in Pleasant st., Malden. The city of Malden was the loser in the suit.

Q.—Was there an officer assigned to each lifeboat? A.—Yes.

Q.—There is testimony that several boats had no officers in them. Why? A.—They didn't get in.

Q.—Had you no authority over your subordinates& A.—I told one officer to get into a lifeboat and he walked away. What could I do?

Q.—There has been testimony that some boats didn't get away, that no one tried to put them off. Were no members of the crew assigned to them? A.—Yes, but they weren't there.

Q.—Weren't you as chief officer in control of the whole crew? A.—Yes, but I couldn't go hunting over the ship for them.

Q.—Most of the women and children, it has been testified, were put in boats on the port side. Was not that the side most difficult to launch boats from? A.—Well, yes, it most certainly was.

Q.—Why were they put there? A.—It was the high side of the ship and most of the passengers were gathered up there.

Q.—What were your relations with Captain Carey? Were you friendly? A.—Yes.

Q.—Do you know why the Vestris failed to answer repeated calls from its sister ship, the Voltaire? A.—No.

Q.—Monday morning the Vestris did answer and told the Voltaire it had nothing to communicate. Why did he not tell the Voltaire of his very serious situation? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Did the captain ever tell you why he waited as long as he did in reporting the condition of his ship? A.—No.

Q.—Was the sea at any time bad enough to endanger any vessel the size of your vessel that was sound? A.—No.

UPHOLDS CAPTAIN

Tuttle then took up the questioning.

Q.—When did it first occur to you to send out an S O S? A.—At 10 o'clock Monday when I asked the captain.

Q.—If you had been the captain wouldn't you have sent out an S O S before that? A.—I don't think so.

Q.—With the list increasing and water coming in from an unknown source, you would not have sent out an S O S before 10 o'clock Monday morning; that's your position, is it? A.—I suppose it is.

James Adams, the Vestris' chief engineer, again took the stand and contradicted yesterday's testimony from Ford, the negro chief fireman, that the cover of the ash hopper could not be fastened down tightly.

"The screws were a little tight, that was all," Adams said.

"Your chief fireman testified the list was so great Monday morning that it took four men to get a shovelful of coal into the boilers," remarked Capt. Jessup.

Adams merely laughed in reply.

A.—Did the list of the ship increase Sunday? A.—No. It was the same all day.

Q.—But I see you testified the last time you were on the stand that it was much greater at night than in the morning. A.—Well, I think my first testimony is correct.

Q.—That it increased all day? A.—Yes.

RUSH FOR BOATS

A graphic story of how passengers and crew scrambled madly for positions in lifeboats, once the women and children had been lowered over the port side in two boats, was related by one of the survivors, Edward J. Marvin of Montclair, N. J., at the U. S. steamboat inspection service inquiry in the customs house.

"The order to lower the lifeboats came about 10:30 Monday morning," said Marwin. "The women and children were placed in boats 4 and 6.

"But, once the women and children were over the side a mad scramble occurred. The crew dashed for the other lifeboats, so did the male passengers.

Q. (by Dickerson N. Hoover, head of the steamboat inspection service, presiding)—What was the condition of the lifeboat you entered? A.—It leaked badly. It was in that condition until we were finally picked up. There were 12 flares in the boat, but nine were defective.

James Duffy, a newspaper reporter, took the stand and repudiated testimony given by Capt. Frederick Sorenson, one of the survivors, who testified that he had been misquoted in interviews published in New York newspapers quoting him as saying the captain and crew of the Vestris were "criminally negligent." Duffy insisted that Sorenson was quoted accurately.

HIS ROOM FLOODED

J. B. Dovalle of the Brazilian consulate in New York testified that shortly after the Vestris left New York the glass in his cabin port hole crashed through and water sloshed in steadily thereafter. He asked the steward to fix it but the steward could not "because there was no gasket on the port hole."

Dovalle described how he boarded one of the lifeboats on the port side which continually banged against the side of the uptilted hold with every roll of the vessel. There were 21 others in the boat.

Q—What was the condition of the lifeboat? A—It began to leak as soon as it was put in the water.

Q.—Was there any drinking water on board the B5? A.—No. The water keg was empty.

Eric Nelson, chief officer of the American Shipper, first ship to reach the scene of disaster, and Conrad Nelson, third officer, testified they had heard the first distress calls of the Vestris when their ship was about 145 miles away. The sea was moderately rough at the time, they asserted. The American Shipper picked up occupants of five lifeboats which were then turned adrift.

Both testified the lifeboats "seemed in good condition."

THREAT TO MOVE PLANT WHERE 500 STRUCK

The plant of the Unity Shoe Co., affected by a strike of 500 workers, will move out of Lynn if the strike is not speedily settled, Louis Salvage, treasurer of the company, said today.

He made his declaration while a committee of five strikers' representatives were in conference with manufacturers.

The conference was still going on three hours after it began.

Treasurer Salvage asserted that as soon as the strike became public a number of customers communicated with plant officials and said they would have to cancel orders if the disagreement did not end speedily.

Answering the statement, representatives of the strikers declared that this is the slack season and there are not many orders anyway.

The strike is said to be in violation of an agreement and came when five plants put into effect a wage cut endorsed by the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration.

Robert Winthrop Loses $50

Paris, Nov. 21 (INS)—Robert Winthrop, a wealthy Boston man, reported to the police today that his pocket had been picked of $50 on the Boulevard Sebastopol.

OUST HEIRS IN SNOW AS THEY GIVE UP FARM

the hill and defied the forces of law and order.

The second change of front occurred after the dispossed men and women saw their cherished heirlooms scattered along a snowy lane, while they stood about in the cold and snow.

The Keysers first laid down their arms on the advice of one of their group, James Nave, formerly of Lancaster, Ky., who gave orders of "No gun play."

Arthur Keyser, who had been loud-spoken in his threats to resist eviction, had been arrested earlier in the day while delivering milk, and although released in time to return to the house during the removal of the family effects, offered no resistance.

Muttering "Its unfair, its unfair," the stern-faced men and women Keysers, some of them with tear-dimmed eyes, stepped over the threshold of their old home, into the snow to become public charges.

The men of Sheriff Frederick D. Elliott removed the Keysers' goods and chattels, placing them in a lane, drove away the cattle and carried off the fowls in burlap bags, while Henry Clow, Laconia mill man and new owner of the farm, looked on.

The eviction was nearly held up by snowfall, as the New Hampshire law requires clear weather, but Sheriff Elliott waited 55 minutes and the snow, which had been drifting silently down, ceased falling and the sun broke through the clouds.

"You see, folks, it's clear," said the sheriff to the throng of 200 townspeople who had followed his posse to the hill to watch the dispossession of the Keysers by court order.

The family had refused to recognize the right of the court to order them out, declaring that an auction sale by which the farm went to Clow was illegal in that they had not agreed to it.

Through the medium of 63-year-old Miss Emma Keyser, they voiced their defiance of the sheriff, declaring there would be no surrender, and as the house was known to contain firearms, the peace officer was prepared for resistance.

Hunting for icebergs

Mountains of ice break off the Greenland glaciers and haphazardly cruise the North Atlantic, a grave menace to ships and shipping.

Hunting out these icebergs, so that giant liners may be forewarned, is a cold job if ever there was one. On lookout duty in dirty weather, in freezing sleet and great sea winds—no wonder the men take instant precaution at the very first hint of a cold.

The old reliable remedy is GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. How good for a cold it is, you may judge from the fact that 22,000,000 boxes were bought last year. It doesn't merely eliminate symptoms. Its tonic and laxative ingredients help nature to help you. Thus you either side-step the cold entirely or throw it off quickly.... Be sure! Emphasize GROVE'S when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Price 30c.

HOOVER CLIMBS INTO CANVAS FISHING TOGS

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Aboard U. S. S. Maryland, via wireless to Los Angeles, Nov. 21—President-elect Herbert Hoover will try his hand at deep sea fishing today off the southern tip of Lower California.

Mr. Hoover exchanged his white flannels for the sturdy canvas clothes of a fisherman this morning and busied himself with getting his troll lines and other deep sea equipment in readiness in his quest for tarpon, marlin, sailfish and yellowtails.

He is out avowedly for "bites" scaling upwards of three hundred pounds.

The fishing will be done from a motor launch, about 40 miles southwest of Cape San Lucas. Mr. Hoover has studied these famous spawning grounds from afar for many years, and today he was eager to have a try at the game fish which are so abundant in these waters.

STEADY PROGRESS

Since leaving San Pedro, the Maryland bearing the Hoover party on the good-will tour to Central and South America has been making steady progress.

It is expected that the Maryland will steam into the first foreign port—Amapala, Honduras—Sunday. The battleship, however, will have to maintain a speed of seventeen knots an hour in order to keep on schedule time.

On this trip the navy is doing itself proud in every detail of the cruise. The big battleship cleaves through the water with never a quiver, and the crew of 1300 officers and men operate with clock-like precision.

Miles Timmins, of Boston, was one of the proudest athletes in the navy today, for Capt. Timmins and his stalwart football squad was photographed with Mr. Hoover on the quarterdeck of the Maryland. He was congratulated by Mr. Hoover for winning the championship of the fifth division in Saturday's game at San Pedro. Timmins was a former star on the Mechanic Arts High School football team at Boston.

Two communications have been sent to the American legations at Panama and Guatemala in which Mr. Hoover expresses regret that he can not visit either country.

HOOVER REGRETS

The note to Panama said:

"Mr. Hoover requests the American legation to express to the President of Panama his deep and sincere regrets at not being able owing to pressure of time to call at Panama and pay his respects to the President and people of a country in whose prosperity, progress and happiness he has the most friendly interest."

The following was sent to the American legation at Guatemala:

"Mr. Hoover requests the American legation to inform the President that he had hoped to have the pleasure of calling at Guatemala, but owing to the pressure of time and difficulties of landing and the danger in the event of bad weather, he has been compelled to abandon this project and asks you to express to the President his cordial appreciation of the President's most cordial invitation and his extreme regrets that he shall not have the pleasure of calling and paying his respects and of visiting a country in whose progress and prosperity he has the deepest interest, and for whom he cherishes the most friendly sentiments."

THANKSGIVING PLANS

As the weather grows warmer, Ambassador Fletcher and others appeared in white suits, but the President-elect's only concession to the weather was white shoes.

The Maryland probably will [illegible] sea on Thanksgiving Day. [illegible] for a big dinner are under way. Preparations are also being made for the usual festive ceremonies attached to passing the equator.

The Maryland probably will steam past the famous imaginary line marking the earth's mid-section on Nov. 28.

Sues to Make U. S. Square Loss in German Marks

Washington, Nov. 21 (INS)—In 1915, Robert J. Thomson of Chicago bought 500,000 marks worth of Imperial German government bonds. He paid $103,000 in good American gold. He has been trying to collect on his investment but without much luck.

Thompson now seeks to recover the value of his investment from the U. S. government. His suit contends that the government holds enough German property to cover the amount, and he wants sufficient of it transferred to him to cover his loss.

9000 ILLEGALLY HELD IN NEW YORK JAILS

Elmira, N. Y., Nov. 20 (AP)—More than 9000 persons now serving time in New York State are illegally imprisoned, according to a ruling of the New York State Court of Appeals. The court upheld a Supreme Court decision declaring unconstitutional an amendment to the state penal code permitting persons charged with a felony to plead guilty without having their cases considered by the grand jury.

OPEN DRIVE TO PUT UP BARS ON IMMIGRATION

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Congressional backers of restricted immigration, accepting Hoover's election as a popular indorsement of the policy, today opened a campaign to draw the bars tighter than ever in the coming session.

A meeting of the House immigration committee called for today signalized the opening of this drive. Ardent restrictionists prepared to urge the committee to demand action on such measures as the national origins clause, changing the basis of immigrant quotas; a drastic deportation bill, aimed chiefly at alien law violators; extension of the restricted system to Canada, Mexico and South America as provided in the Box bill pending in committee; the Schneider bill, legalizing entrance of immigrants smuggled in before 1921. Anti-restrictionists propose to extend it to 1924, thus legalizing entry of 1,000,000 aliens.

The Box bill and deportation measures are expected to furnish the fireworks. Both are backed by Representative Albert Johnson (R.) of Washington, committee chairman, and Representative John Box (D.) of Texas, ranking minority member.

The national origins clause, designed to increase the percentage of northern European immigration, may be sidetracked, but not without a fight. President-elect Hoover is opposed to this measure.

HOW SHAPLEY FIXES STAR DISTANCES

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP)—The National Academy of Science today turned attention toward the stars.

Dr. Harlow Shapley of Harvard, who had announced he and his associates were practically certain they had discovered the center of the earth's particular galaxy in the Milky Way about 47,000 light years away in the direction of Sagittarius, was called upon to report more of his discoveries.

This youthful astronomer has found in the fluctuating brightness of the Cephiad variable stars a yardstick for measuring incredible distances.

Knowing that these stars have regular periods of extreme brightness and of relative dullness, he is able to compute their distances from the earth by comparing their candlepower with the amount that reaches his observatory.

The difference tells him how much of the brightness has been lost, and from that he can calculate how many years the light rays he is able to see have been traveling at the rate of 186,000 miles a second reaching the earth.

Some of those he has observed have been traveling 100,000,000 years, and it takes only 200,000 years, he says, for a light ray to cross the entire galaxy, of which the earth is a part.

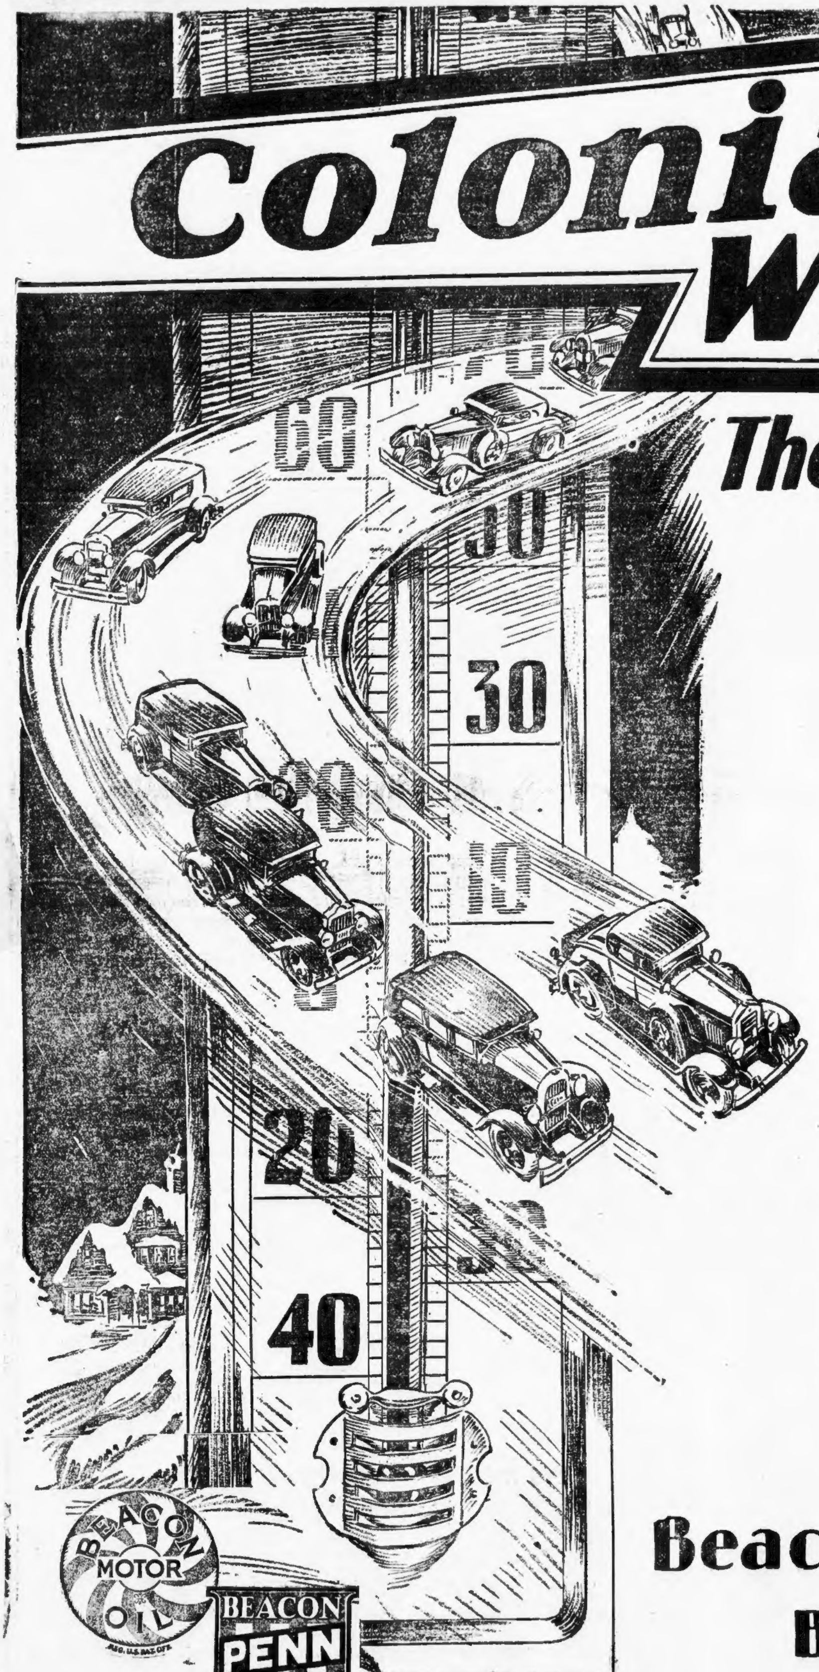
Colonial Wintergas



The New Gas for Winter

FOR years, motorists have dreaded winter driving. With the first touch of frost—their cold weather troubles begin. In the morning the car won't start—the starter grinds away for minutes at a time, the battery growing weaker and weaker, and you wonder how long it will keep turning over. At last the motor gives a kick and the engine begins firing, only to die down with a gasp—and the process begins all over again. You finally get started, but thruout the rest of the day the motor seems dead and sluggish, and if the car stands for an hour or so you go thru the same experience again.

Up to now there has been no remedy for these troubles because the ordinary gasoline, having been designed primarily for summer use with slight modifications for cold weather, is entirely inadequate to meet such varying conditions in temperature.

Our engineers have been working on this problem for a long time, and we have come to the conclusion that an entirely different method of refining gasoline is required in winter than in summer. As a result we have developed from our Colonial Gasoline, a new gasoline retaining the characteristic Colonial freedom from "borderland", but especially refined for winter use.

This week we introduce this new gas—COLONIAL WINTERGAS—at all our Filling Stations, Dealers and Distributors. We ask you to try COLONIAL WINTERGAS, and note what wonderful results it gives. If you choose COLONIAL WINTERGAS, most of your winter starting and accelerating problems are over.

COLONIAL WINTERGAS sells at the same price as ordinary gasoline; and COLONIAL ETHYL WINTERGAS, for high compression or badly carboned engines, sells for 3c. per gallon more.

BLONDE TELLS OF ROTHSTEIN HOTEL PARTY

New York, Nov. 21 (INS)—Ruth Keyes, blonde "free lance model" from Chicago and the last hope of police for solution of the Rothstein murder mystery, faced a barrage of questions today at the district attorney's office.

During her questioning, a poorly dressed individual, about 28, was hurried into the room by detectives, who rushed him out in 15 minutes. It was reported that the "mystery man" claimed he was an eye witness of the shooting in the Park Central Hotel.

Mrs. Keyes viewed rogues' gallery pictures of gamblers who have been mentioned in the hunt for Rothstein's slayer.

She was questioned by Dist. Atty. Banton about the "party" she attended in room 349 on the evening Rothstein was shot.

She came here of her own free will and is not under arrest. In Chicago she told detectives she met a man named "Jack" at the hotel and had a few drinks with him. She did not know Rothstein, she said. Police hope she will identify one of the rogues' gallery pictures as "Jack."

Meanwhile George McManus a suspect who has eluded police for three weeks, was reported to have been in Philadelphia. McManus, a former associate of Rothstein, is brother of a New York police lieutenant. He is believe to have witnessed the shooting.

LADY OSLER BEQUEATHS MONEY TO U. S. COLLEGES

London, Nov. 21 (AP)—Several bequests to American universities are contained in the will of Lady Osler, widow of Sir William Osler, made public today.

The sum of £5000 was left to Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia, £2000 to the Tudor and Stuart Club or library of Johns Hopkins University, £600 to the Gross library at the College of Physicians, Philadelphia, and £10,000 to McGill University of Montreal.

Lady Osler was the eldest daughter of John Revere of Boston. Her first husband was Dr. Samuel Gross of Philadelphia and her second Sir William Osler.

3 SHEIKS SLAIN BY PERSIAN AIR RAIDERS

Basrak, Irak, Nov. 21 (AP)—Three rebel sheiks are reported to have been killed in an air raid conducted by the Persian authorities on a section of Arab tribes known as the Beni Turuf, dwelling near Ahwaz, which have been in conflict with Persian troops.

JOBLESS MAN PLUNGES 3 STORIES TO DEATH

Springfield, Nov. 21—Despondent because he could not obtain work, Nicholas Boubolica, 35, leaped to death, according to police, from the window of his room on the third floor of a lodging house in Massasoit st. today. Boubolica struck a cement driveway, crushing his skull. He came to this city from Manchester, N. H., where his parents are said to live.

HEARING ON 'L' TOMORROW

The special rapid transit commission, created by the Legislature to investibate rapid transit needs in territory served by teh Boston Elevated Street Railway, together with the possibility of the taking over by the "L" of lines of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway in Chelsea and Revere, will hold a public hearing tomorrow forenoon at the State House.

Hearings have already been held in Chelsea, Reevre, Roslindale, Jamaica Plain, Hyde Park, Malden and Everett.

The chairman of the commission is Senator Gaspar G. Bacon of Boston.

DEFER CHURCH BUILDING ROW

The petition brought by Courtney Guild for a writ of mandamus to compel Building Commissioner Louis K. Rourke to observe the zoning laws in the Episcopal church case, was today indefinitely postponed in Supreme Court by Judge Pierce.

The petition was brought to enforce the zoning laws against the Episcopal church which intended to erect a building at Joy st. higher than allowed under the zoning law.

The case came before Judge Pierce on Friday and was postponed until today, when it was learned that counsel for the Episcopal church had notified the court that an indefinite postponement had been agreed upon.

DORCHESTER TRUCKMEN ROBBED OF 31 ON TRIP

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP)—Forcing the driver and his helper to get off a truck on the outskirts of Syracuse today, two men robbed them of $31 and escaped.

Frank B. Ellis, truck driver for a Dorchester, Mass., transportation company, told police the men took $27 from him and $4 from his helper, William Smith, also of Dorchester.

Ellis said he was driving the truck to Chicago.

DEFENDS LABOR AGAINST BRAND OF 'MENACE'

New Orleans, La., Nov. 21 (INS)—Charges and counter charges between the Manufacturers' Association and the American Federation of Labor continued today to echo in the sessions of the latter organization's annual convention.

Col. C. B. Ross, U. S. A., liason officer between the War Department and the Federation of Labor, declared it was "unbelievable" that the Manufacturers' Association would brand the Federation of Labor as a "menace to society."

"The association must have forgotten the part Organized Labor played in the war," said Col. Ross.

The liason officer told the 400 delegates attending the convetnion that "the army is preparing for war, but is not preparing a cause for war."

WOULD PREVENT WAR.

Paul V. McNutt, national commander of the American Legion, earlier urged union labor's support to prevent war.

"Shoulder to shoulder, labor and the Legion can do this service for our country," he declared.

"The greatest insurance for peace is to take the profit out of the war," he said. "At the close of the World War, a new millionaire's mansion could be checked against every white star and cross on the battlefield."

Resolutions calling for stricter enforcement of immigration and the release of workers serving time in prisons have been submitted to the convention.

FREEDOM FOR MONEY

One calls for the release of Thomas Mooney, imprisoned in California for participating in bombings that caused the deaths of several persons. The resolution requests Governor Young of California to release Mooney "and all other workers unjustly held in prisons of California" and directs the sending of similar requests to other governors in whose states "workers are unjustly held in prisons because of their efforts in behalf of the working class."

More favorable immigration legislation would be advocated in a resolution of Harry W. Fox of the Wyoming State Federation of Labor, which directs the executive council to "support any and all measures that will further restrict immigration by extending the quota laws to other countries."

The measure asserts a shutting down of immigration is necessary "because the introduction of labor-saving machinery continues to swell the ranks of the unemployed.

BRITISH COMBINE WILL FIGHT GENERAL MOTORS

London, Nov. 21 (AP)—With the intention of challenging American supremacy in the world automobile market, three of the leading British firms will be amalgamated under the name of Humber, Limited. The firms are Commer Cars, Ltd., Humber, Ltd., and Hillman Motor Car Company, Ltd.

"We mean to concentrate on producing a car which will win a place in the world's markets and excel any American car of equivalent price," an official of one of the companies said. He added the eventual aim was to rival the General Motors Company of America. The combine will have capital of $6,250,000.

MISSING OIL WITNESS "IDENTIFIED" IN PARIS

Paris, Nov. 21 (INS)—H. M. Blackmer, missing Teapot Dome oil witnes, whose extradition is being sought by the United States government to answer charges of perjury in connection with his income tax returns in Colorado, appeared in court today for "identification," but there was no decision of any kind bearing upon the case. Blackmer's appearance was a formality. He gave his age as 59 and his residence as the Hotel Plaza Athenee, Paris. Blackmer must apear personally next week before the "Chambre mise en accusation."

"ICE CREAM" PARLORS SELL CHILDREN RUM

Chicago, Nov. 21 (INS)—Further raids against "ice cream parlors" and "candy stores," in which it is charged liquor is being sold to school children, were planned today by authorities.

The campaign was precipitated by the fatal shooting of a high school student by the keeper of a so-called ice cream parlor. The latter, police, who found liquor in his place, claim had been making a business of "ruining school children through the sale of liquor."

Wooden Foods Are Here; Beware of Splinters!

Pittsburgh, Nov. 21 (AP)—The human food that can now be made from wood may not appeal to persons desiring to reduce, but it is otherwise one of the widely used elements in table diet.

What elements will constitute this food from wood were disclosed by Dr Friedrich Bergius in an informal talk at the second international conference on bituminous coal at the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

He is the youthful apearing German chemist who has converted wood waste into an animal fodder that is selling in competition in Germany with natural fodder, and who told the coal conference how wood is turned into real coal.

Dr. Bergius said that the human food product that can be made from wood is a white substance, that may be described as between starch and sugar. It is not sweet. He termed it a pure, flavorless product rich in edible carbohydrates, and said it can be turned into normal glucose.

"It may be made," he said, "from the waste cellulose that occurs in great quantities in wood waste and such plants as cornstarch and cotton stalks and in the hulls and shell of nuts

"Though we have not converted this cellulose into human food, it may be done so readily that food from it for human consumption is now a possibility. To produce this food it is only necessary to remove the chlorides and some small impurities from the cellulose food now made for animal fodder."

MENINGITIS CASES SHOW BIG INCREASE

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—An unusual prevalence of cerebro-spinal meningitis in the country during the past year, particularly on the Pacific coast, was shown in a report issued by the public health service. Cases totaled 176, more than double the maximum reached at any time during the past four years. No reason was advanced for the increase.

Boylston at Washington and at our new store

407 Washington St., opp. Filene's

three years ago this month these stores advanced the idea of the weekly charge account

Monthly charge accounts were known to everybody, but the big inconvenience that the average family experienced in the purchase of men's clothing or in any purchase that meant an investment of $25 or more was that of accumulating the $25 or more at any one time. The monthly charge account did not relieve this family's problem, because the $25 was still payable in one lump sum —hence—

OUR WEEKLY PAYMENT PLAN

Allows men to pay for their clothes the way they get paid, weekly or monthly—all they need save for the purchase is $10, and then they pay the balance over a period of ten weeks. No extra charge for this convenience—just like a regular charge account—the price remains the same.

We got our idea from the Co-operative Banks—from big businesses—from Uncle Sam, where business is done on this same basis—a stipulated amount at specified intervals over a stated period of time.

For Brockley $29 garments you pay $10 at purchase—then $1.90 weekly for 10 weeks.
For $35 garments you pay $10 at the purchase—then $2.50 weekly for 10 weeks.
For Continental $38 garments you pay $10 at purchase—then $2.80 weekly for 10 weeks.
For $45 garments you pay $10 at purchase—then $3.50 weekly for 10 weeks.
For $50 garments you pay $10 at purchase—then $4.00 weekly for 10 weeks.
For $55 garments you pay $10 at purchase—then $4.50 weekly for 10 weeks.
For $60 garments you pay $10 at purchase—then $5.00 weekly for 10 weeks.
For $65 garments you pay $10 at purchase—then $5.50 weekly for 10 weeks.

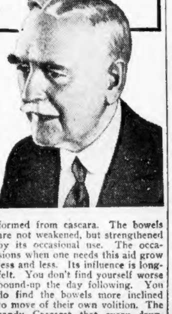
A Doctor Talks About Cascara



It is unfortunate that many people judge the thoroughness of a laxative by its violence. The salts that rush through the system may not even penetrate the film of poisonous matter that has coated the colon. A long list of drugs will "loosen the bowels" but what is the best way to CLEANSE them?

The world's best laxative is one that Mother Nature makes in her own laboratory. It is the bark of a tree, called CASCARA. The Indians used to chew this bark—and reach old age without a sick day. It is the best thing there is today for any system; best for the blood. The most beneficial in its action on the bowels, of anything yet disclosed. For many reasons:

First of all, there is no HABIT formed from cascara. The bowels are not weakened, but strengthened by its occasional use. The occasions when one needs this aid grow less and less. Its influence is long-felt. You don't find yourself worse bound-up the day following. You do find the bowels more inclined to move of their own volition. The candy Cascaret that every drugstore always has in stock is the ideal form of cascara.

Story of a "Good Gunman" and His Battles

CHAPTER 21.

EDDIE'S mind, eager for hope, seized upon the husks of encouragement relayed to him by old Tobe. There were times when his aspiration seemed preposterous and grotesque—but always there was a secret, solid core of determination to carry on. But it did not necessarily mean happiness and there were days when his heart was leaden.

He was famished for good news, and the servants' gossip furnished it. Marian had defended him against her father—she had refused to go dancing with Tom Freeman. Add these reliable rumors together, the results looked as though he had an established place in her regard. If he chose to be optimistic he could picture himself rapidly attaining the heights. But common sense [illegible] his fervid speculation. Most likely she was merely standing up for him through a sense of [illegible]

"Don't get [illegible] yet [illegible] while [illegible] 'You are [illegible]

But [illegible] his [illegible]

Two weeks of heavy manual labor had passed since his first and last call at the Thorndike home. He had thrown himself violently into physical toil with the spiritualized idea that he might attain some mystic purification and strength through redoubled toil. Work was a passion with him; he was a zealot, a fanatic castigating himself with slavelike exhaustion of the body, but, after all, he was no medieval penitent to scourge himself enviously. He was a young man desperately in love and after a time reverted back to the inevitable human longings of his type.

"All these noble ideas are O. K.," he confessed to himself. "But I need something else. I need to look at her face."

His steady labor, though, had done one thing for him—his fibre was more closely knit, and his mind seemed to have a steadier poise. There was a feeling in his nerves that he had ascended to a higher pitch than ever.

No word from her had come to him directly. He wondered if she was seeing much of Tom Freeman, but there was satisfaction in the report that she had broken an engagement with his rival. Tobe brought in a piece of gossip about Freeman.

[illegible] went to town [illegible] himself did [illegible] reported.

[illegible] was [illegible] at the underground [illegible] that seemed to exist among the colored folks. They knew, apparently, everything the white people did and were surprisingly [illegible] to guess at significant actions.

Again it was Tobe who brought him [illegible] information. Marian's father and mother, the [illegible] him, were absent now for a few days from the country, [illegible] in Richmond. Marian

CAR OWNERS CO. PAID $225 FOR EACH CASE

[illegible] that the average cost [illegible] settled by the Car Owners' [illegible] Insurance Company from [illegible] 1, 1927, to August 31, 1928, was at the rate of $225.34 and that the company has a reserve of $456.04 per case for the 145 cases now pending, was given at the master's hearing today at the State House by Roy A. Barrows of Wakefield, claim manager for the company.

The hearings are to determine whether the company is insolvent as claimed by Acting Insurance Commissioner [illegible] E. Lannelo [illegible] his petition for an injunction before the court. Barrows's appearance on the stand came after the state, through Asst. Atty. Gen. Roger Clapp, had rested its case.

It developed that the company settled through payments, 1051 cases in 1927 and 589 cases from Jan. 1 of the present year to Aug. 31. The seven branch offices outside Boston, it was declared by the witness, had authority to settle cases up to $150.

GIRL REPENTS SUICIDE TRY

After taking poison on Berkeley st. a [illegible] from police headquarters, today, a girl who said she was Florence [illegible], but refused to give her address, [illegible] changed her mind about dying—probably quickly enough to save her life.

Her name is on the danger list at City Hospital. Police say she attempted suicide because of despondency over her failure to obtain work.

Hardly had she swallowed the poison when she screamed to a passing taxi driver, David Gurstein, and [illegible] him to hurry her to a hospital. Gurstein called Traffic Officer [illegible] Jones.

The taxi speeded to the hospital with Jones on the running board, blowing his whistle to gain a clear road through traffic.

FORMER LYNN MAYOR IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Ex-Mayor William P. Connery of Lynn is seriously ill at his home, 17 New Ocean st., Lynn, where he suffered a stroke several days ago. He is 73 years old. He was Mayor of Lynn in 1912 and 1913.

DAD GIVES BLOOD TO SAVE SON

Brockton, Nov. 21—As a last hope of saving the life of a 14-year-old Brockton high school football player, the father and an uncle of the stricken youth submitted to blood transfusions today and gave up a pint of their blood as the lad hovered between life and death.

The youth, Seymore Maskell of 3[illegible] Crescent st., was seriously injured in a football scrimmage yesterday afternoon when he was kicked in the stomach. He felt no severe effects, however, until late at night, when he suddenly collapsed.

An examination by the family physician revealed that he was suffering from hemorrhages and he was ordered to the Goddard hospital.

As his condition gradually became more grave a blood transfusion was decided on and the boy's father, Benjamin, and his uncle, Max Raffin, of Battle st., agreed to submit to the operation.

Within an hour after the transfusion of a quart of blood into the lad's body his condition improved and attendants were hopeful for his recovery.

RACE WITH DEATH IN 4 STATES

With state police of four states [illegible] ahead as motorcycle escorts, an automobile early today [illegible] sixteen-year-old girl from Lisbon Falls, Me., to the Crippled Children's Hospital in Bridgeport, Ct., where an operation was performed to ease her pain and save her life.

Across Maine to the New Hampshire boundary, over Granite State territory into Massachusetts, through this state from Salisbury to the border below Springfield and across Connecticut to Bridgeport, the [illegible] bearing [illegible] Adams, her father and [illegible] raced.

On the trip the improvised ambulance was driven by Rev. Felix [illegible] of Lisbon Falls.

The girl has congenital dislocation of the hip. Her family lived in Bridgeport until recently and it was believed that only her regular attending surgeon in that city could successfully deal with her in the emergency.

Her father, Frank Adams, was at the wheel of the car and her mother held her in her arms in the rear. The start was made from Lisbon Falls shortly before midnight and the arrival at Bridgeport was not made until after daylight today.

Drs. George Hawley and Arthur Griswold, bone specialists, were waiting to operate when that city was reached.

Educational Drive To Be Opened By Catholic Council

Cincinnati, Nov. 21 (AP) — An educational campaign to acquaint the general public with the character, history, teachings, civil and religious allegiance of Catholics and the Catholic Church will be conducted by the National Council of Catholic men and affiliated organizations.

Resolutions for such a campaign were adopted by the council at the final session of its annual convention here. Another resolution urged the study of labor and other social problems in the light of Catholic principles by member and affiliated societies.

OPEN PROBE IN B. & M. WRECK

[illegible], Nov. 21 (AP)—Investigation of the wreck of two Boston & [illegible] trains in the [illegible] south of the Lowell station on Monday was scheduled for this afternoon at a closed hearing to be attended by railroad officials and representatives of the State Department of Public [illegible] and of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

More than a score of witnesses were waiting to be questioned, all of them being employes of the railroad. Although nothing was made public concerning the line of inquiry, it was understood the investigation would center on operation of signals and the visibility on the day the wreck occurred.

Stubborn Cough Quickly Ended by Famous Recipe

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that usually follow the [illegible]

From any druggist get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Gargle Listerine

Kills germs in 15 seconds

ARE you miserable half of the time—a needless slave to sore throat?

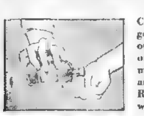
At the first sign of sore throat, gargle with Listerine, full strength. Time and time again it checks sore throat before it gets serious.

Because Listerine, full strength, is powerful against germs that cause colds and throat irritation. For example, it kills even the stubborn B. Typhosus (typhoid) germ in 15 seconds. Repeated tests prove it.

You will be delighted to find how quickly Listerine checks ordinary cases of colds and sore throat. When it does not, call your physician.

Our helpful free book, "Personal Hygiene," is worth having. Write to Dept. S. 13, Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

Do this and escape colds



Countless colds start when germs are carried to the mouth on food. By using Listerine on the hands before every meal, you attack such germs and lessen the risk of cold. Remember this, mothers, when handling baby's food.

SOON YOU'LL HEAR WE NEED BIGGER GARDEN

MODERN sports seem to be following the stock market. When the boys made the plans for the new Garden, they figured they had more than enough room to accommodate any crowd that might appear in the next 10 years. The first hockey game of new [illegible] comes along. Some 2000 standees pay their way in, and at least 5000 are turned away.

The investors, who thought they would have to wait years for their money, are beginning to grin broadly. The turnout for the Bruins opener will not be duplicated quickly, but the fact that such a throng stormed the portals is significant.

Nick Flatley

There will be another capacity crowd down at the North Station when Jimmy Maloney and Johnny Risko swap punches next week. When a layout that was planned for the future years can be packed three times in a single month, you have to admit that sports have become just as important a part of American life as business, or prohibition.

Hockey has been a huge financial success for the past two years here in your own city, and it is now off on its biggest year. Yet it is only a short while back that the croakers were predicting ruin for the game.

Joe Page, the international scout, and Charlie Adams, the big butter and egg man, had vision. Joseph came along with the hockey idea four years ago. He said there was millions in it, and most of the crowd gave him the laugh. But Charles F. listened, and put up the money.

He dropped something like $50,000 that first year, but insisted that he had tapped a new kind of gold mine. Events proved how correct he was. He had vision, and backed it up with money. The builders of this new arena would seem to be gifted with the same sort of vision.

RICKARD SHOULD PUT MOST OF HIS HEAVYWEIGHTS INTO PRO HOCKEY. THEY'D BE ELIMINATED IN VERY SHORT ORDER.

Hockey is a Canadian game, but, like the well-known forbidden waters, the most and the best of it has been brought down over the border

FOOTBALL CHANGES, BUT TRADITION CLINGS

WILL ROGERS chirps that Harvard and Yale are playing Saturday to see which has the worse team. There may be some truth in that, but you never could tell by the ticket demand. The fans are coming in for this grid war from all corners of the map, including that Scandinavia.

There's so much interest in the result that the old grads haven't time to talk about the rumored change of Harvard coaches. And there hasn't even been a yip from New Haven about a successor to Mal Stevens. Half a dozen quarrels around the country will furnish more class and excitement, but that's neither here nor there.

Peeking at the Yale-Harvard scramble is part of the religion of the oldtime footballer. And that is typical of the game. It is founded in tradition and the foundations refused to be weakened by the passing years.

Which explains its wonderful hold on the populace, said hold being a fearsome mystery to the professional promoters of professional sports.

BOSTON GETS THE AMATEUR TITLE BOUTS AGAIN, SHOWING THAT THE A. A. U. OFFICIALS ARE SMARTER THAN SOME OF THEIR STUNTS MAKE THEM APPEAR.

President Hopkins does not want his football team to go flying. Probably figures the boys have been up in the air sufficiently often for one season.

BOSTON NEXT FOR HEAVY TITLE BOUT

IT does not take the promoters long to chase success. A couple of good houses at the Boston Garden, and the word goes around that the championship fights of the near future may be moved to Boston.

New York has gone sour on the expenive heavies, and there was so much hubbub after that one large quarrel in Chicago that the officials out there don't care if the champs never come back.

Boston is ready for a big row. The North Sta. can pack in as much money as Madison sq. Garden, while either of our ball parks could be ballyhooed close to the half million mark by the proper kind of attraction

Boston has two native sons, Sharkey and Maloney, who stick out above the rest of the crop. Now that South Boston James is seriously trying to come back, a match between the pair would make more money than anybody thought there was in Boston.

If James can get by Risko, such a collision would be logical. But getting by that tough bird gives Mister Maloney enough subject for thought for the present.

Carnegie Tech Line Has Scottish Traits

Chicago, Nov. 21 (AP)—Judge Walter P. Steffen, the commuting coach of Carnegie Tech, explained today why the Carnegie Scotchmen defeated Notre Dame last Saturday and in so doing he coined a new Scotch joke.

"That Scotch line," said the judge, "just wouldn't give."

For 15 years Judge Steffen has been week-ending in Pittsburgh coaching [illegible] Carnegie football teams.

TOM LONGNECKER

LONGNECKER IS BEST GREEN PILOT NOW

By BILL GRIMES

Two years ago, when the call was issued for the Dartmouth freshman team candidates, a tall, slim, 18-year-old boy reported to Coach Sid Hazelton. He stated that he was a quarterback and that his name was Longnecker.

A check up showed that Longnecker had prepared at Delta, O. high school, where he had played football, baseball and basketball and also that he had been a member of the track team.

Possibly Tommy Longnecker's prep school accomplishments as an all around athlete may have had something to do with his failure to receive any more than passing recognition since he went to Dartmouth. Tommy was held on the freshman squad and battled Bart McDonough all season for the quarterback berth but to no avail. The Woburn boy got the job. And this in spite of the fact that Longnecker drove the team hard and was by far the best punter on a squad which contained Al Marsters and Hal Hamm

TRIED FOR VARSITY

Last fall Tommy Longnecker reported to Coach Jess Hawley. He was getting better distance with his punts and was fortified with a passable knowledge of the varsity plays, acquired from his training with the freshmen. But he did not click.

Tommy is the lightest man on the Dartmouth varsity squad and because of his height, it requires a strong imagination to believe that he tips the scales at 162. Tommy battled along last season against Bob McPhail, Bob Harris and Bart McDonough and wound up as about a fifth string quarterback but he was right on the job this fall when the varsity candidates returned to Hanover.

Harris and McDonough met with injuries this season and were played when they should have been on the sidelines. This condition was brought about by the fact that the coaches thought that after Harris and McDonough there were no quarterbacks at Dartmouth.

DIDN'T GET CHANCE

Tommy almost got into the Norwich game when Harris was hurt and McDonough thought to be in no condition for action. He was told to warm up and did so, but, when the change was found necessary, Bart McDonough went in and Tommy went back to the bench.

During the Columbia, Harvard, Yale and Brown games, Harris and McDonough were badly used up, and last week it was discovered that neither of them was at all fit to play against Cornell.

Then came Tommy Longnecker's opportunity. After it was discovered that Harris and McDonough were definitely out of the Cornell game, Longnecker was taken up to the varsity and worked with the first team for three days. Then he was sent into his first game, Cornell.

Dartmouth had lost to Harvard, Yale and Brown in a row, and were a short end against the Ithacans, but with Tommy Longnecker directing the team, Al Marsters and Shep Wolff back in form, the Indians of the North functioned for the first time in a month and came through with an unexpected victory.

Longnecker drove the Dartmouth team as it has not been driven this season. Also, he kicked every point after touchdown, something that has not happened since the days of George Tully.

NEW HAVEN ICE TEAM PLAYS TIGER SIX

New Haven Eagles, including half a dozen players who were with the New York Americans last year, will meet Boston Tigers in the Arena Saturday night in the third game of the Boston Canadian-American League season.

The Eagles, after dropping their first two games, burst out Monday and defeated the powerful Providence Reds with Billy Boucher, formerly of Les Canadiens, the Bruins, and the Americans, in the leading role.

Manager Eddie Powers of the Tigers regards the Eagles as one of the hardest teams to beat in the tight little Can.-Am. circuit because they have in their lineup so many potent veterans.

Boucher, who used to team with Howie Morenz and Aurel Joliat on the great forward line of Les Canadiens, is regarded as a dangerous scoring wing

He will be supported by such stars as Marty Barry, Ed Bouchard and Clarence Bowcher, all of last year's Americans and by a whole flock of players from the Niagara Falls team of the Canadian pro league.

WESTBORO IN FINAL HOME GAME SATURDAY

Westboro, Nov. 21—Westboro high will play its last home game here Saturday afternoon against Milford high in a Midland league game and then on Thanksgiving will journey to Maynard for the last Midland league game with Maynard high

Through an agreement the Maynard high team will come to Westboro next year. The game between Milford and Westboro should be close this year as both teams average about the same.

Hope was felt until today that Decker might recover from his two broken fingers of last week [illegible] start Saturday's game, [illegible] examination of his digits [illegible] decision that although he [illegible] called upon for relief [illegible] midway in the Harvard game, he will not be used at the kickoff.

Steady improvement in the condition of every Yale player was shown today and the coaches believe that Garvey can be relied upon for a few minutes' line ramming, that Hoot Ellis can be called from the sidelines for a brief quarterback rally and that Charlesworth will be available at center.

Oldt will be called from the sidelines for his dropkicking specialty [illegible] occasion arises. Yale has not kicked a goal following touchdown in four games. The coaches feel that the strategy of using Arthur Palmer, the oarsman, at guard for kickoff and later to relieve Loeser at center, was successful, and they plan to repeat this distribution of [illegible] troops next Saturday.

Yale's practice today will be the longest of the week between the Princeton and Harvard controversies but will include no set [illegible] The only actual scrimmaging will be of the dummy variety.

Pirate Owner Picks Carnegie Tech to Down N. Y. U.

New York, Nov 21—Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, appeared in a new role at the N. Y. U.-Missouri game. Barney scouted the Violets for Carnegie Tech, which meets N. Y. U. in Barney's ball park on Saturday.

"Carnegie will win, though the lines will be very well matched in power and size and speed," said Dreyfuss, who knows a bit about football.

"Carnegie will win because of balance and versatility in the backfield. But what a game!"

Can Mechanic Arts stop Rabinovitz today?

That question is being answered at Braves Field this afternoon.

Latin has shown itself one of the best teams in the City league by its wins over [illegible] Trade and Dorchester [illegible] and a [illegible] line in its contest today.

Hill, Needham, Connell and [illegible] alonis have been playing outstanding football for Mechanic Arts all season.

HARD BOY TO STOP

If Mechanic Arts can stop him today, it will accomplish something that Commerce, Trade, and Dorchester [illegible] impossible.

[illegible] Litchenstein is [illegible] a dangerous back.

[illegible] today [illegible] over [illegible] great line and a [illegible] attack.

Trade school pulled a fake argument play in the game with South Boston and got a touchdown on it. Previous to the play in question, McArdle had scampered 70 yards through left tackle to South Boston's six yard line. On the next play, Gusson called signals then hesitated and shouted, "What's the matter with youse guys? Don't you know the signals?"

The South Boston line, its attention relaxing, looked up to see what it was all about. And Harry Spack, Trade's left halfback, grabbed the ball and plunged through the astonished and totally unprepared South Boston line for six yards and a touchdown.

It was the [illegible] score of the day as South Boston couldn't get its offense [illegible] and Trade was satisfied to hold its lead.

HOLY NAME A. A. TO STAGE AMATEUR SHOW

The Holy Name Athletic Assn. of the West Roxbury-Roslindale district, will open its season tonight with an amateur open boxing meet of four classes, 118, 126, 135 and 147 pounds, and, judging from the long list of entries received by Secretary Frank Kelley, it promises to be another busy program for the lovers of amateur boxing. As in the past the club will have the use of the Municipal Building, Roslindale, and the proceeds will be used for charity. Some of the very best boys in the state have sent along their entry blanks, and that means plenty of action.

STUDENT COUPLING BEAT FARRELL AND HAGEN

Eugene, Ore., Nov. 21 (AP)—Johnny Farrell and Walter Hagen were defeated in an exhibition golf match here yesterday by Vincent Dolp and Don Moe, young University of Oregon students. The match was the best ball foursome for which Dolp and Moe turned in a medal score of 66, a 34 and a 32. Hagen and Farrell totaled 69 with 34 and 35.

Want Grid Games

MR. BOSTON

By Jack Conway

"CON O'KELLEY from County Cork, Ireland."

Mr. Boston read a press notice from the Sharkey A. A. aloud.

"The name and place of birth should at least prove a prima facie case that O'Kelley is a fighter," said the veteran, laughingly. "I can remember the days when most all of the good fighters were Irish. They were so [illegible]

"The Irish later went in for the managing and promotion end of the boxing racket. The result is that the number of Irish fighters has decreased greatly.

"Ireland has sent some great fighters to this country. Included in the list were the original Jack Dempsey, the 'Nonpareil,' whose real name was John Kelly; Ike Weir, 'The Belfast Spider,' one of the best featherweights that ever lived; Mike McTigue, Peter Maher, Jim Coffey, Tom Sharkey, the Gardner brothers, George, Billy and Jimmy, and the Sullivan brothers, Spike and Dave.

"There have been many outstanding fighters of Irish-American descent. Some of the Irish-American battlers are still blazing the fistic trail. Rated high in the list of Irish-American fighters are the names of Gene Tunney, Mickey Walker, Mike Gibbons, Tom Gibbons, Jimmy Slattery, Tommy Loughran, Dave Shade, Jack McAuliffe, retired undefeated lightweight champion; Terry McGovern, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, Johnny Kilbane, Gunboat Smith, Jimmy Barry, Mike O'Dowd, Jack Britton, Harlem Tommy Murphy, Honey Mellody, the Twin Sullivans, Mike and Jack; John L. Sullivan, Jake Kilrain, Jim Corbett, Dick Finnegan, Jim Maloney, Mike Glover and Jimmy Barry, former bantamweight champion.

"O'Kelley is rated high by New York experts who have seen him in action. Hype Igoe, Vincent Trainor and other New York writers who were in Boston for the opening of the Garden here were rather loud in their praise of O'Kelley. If he is only half as good as the New Yorkers claim, he should go somewhere in the heavyweight scramble.

"Dan Morgan has been touting O'Kelley for two months, but we have discounted some of his remarks, as Dan has a habit of giving an Irish battler a little the best of the breaks.

"TOM O'ROURKE is managing O'Kelley and he insists he won't let the Cork warrior take the O out of his name. Tom insists an O'Kelley can always put it over a plain Kelley.

"In his day Tom managed Joe Walcott, George Dixon and other boxers of note. When he says O'Kelley is the goods one must give him a hearing.

"WALCOTT and Dixon were two of the greatest colored boxers that ever lived. From time to time you hear of various colored boxers who are heralded as a new Walcott or a new Dixon. The similarity usually ends with their color.

"Dixon reached the top before Walcott. At the time O'Rourke picked up Joe he and Dixon toured the country meeting all comers. One night a particularly strong, tough-looking fellow, packing plenty of weight, appeared at the stage entrance and asked for an opportunity to tackle Dixon.

"O'Rourke figured he was too big for George and so put him in with Walcott, who was an unknown at the time. Walcott scored with one of his terrific knockout punches which later won for him the world's welterweight title. His opponent went out cold.

"When the big fellow came to in the dressing room an hour later, he said: 'It's a good thing I didn't meet the champion, if a bum like this here Walcott can knock me as stiff as this.'

"Walcott was known as 'The Giant Killer.' Although he seldom weighed more than 145 pounds, he knocked out most of the heavyweights who were sent against him. Honey Mellody, who later became world's welterweight champion, was one of the few boxers who had Walcott's number.

"WALCOTT has spent most of his time in Boston. Fate has not been very kind to him. Like most of the boxers of the old school, he ended up broke. Odd jobs and the ability to smile in the face of reverses have enabled him to keep the wolf off the frontsteps.

"Dixon also went to the cleaners long before his death. He had been a big money-maker in his day, but he did not have the faculty of holding on to his earnings."

Ouafi-Ray Race in Garden Saturday

Boston will entertain a celebrity on Saturday night from a far-distant land who, if reports are true, is coming here with fire in his dark eyes and with a longing for revenge stirring his semi-savage breast.

He is El Ouafi, product of the Algerian desert, whose livelihood was gained as a camel chauffeur and later as a dispatch bearer for the French army in the World War.

He won his place in the sun when the endurance and speed he gained in chasing camels carried him to victory over a hundred odd runners, representing 48 nations in the Olympic Marathon at Amsterdam last July.

Almost immediately the spindle-shanked Arab heard the call of American dollars in a pro race in New York. One of those whom he defeated, who finished fifth in that race, was the veteran American runner, Chesty Joie Ray, who also turned professional.

ARAB REPEATED

He and Ouafi clashed the second time, in Madison Square Garden, New York, and the Arab repeated, defeating Ray by three laps and setting a new professional record for the full Marathon distance of 2 hours, 44 minutes, 2[illegible] seconds.

Next they raced in Philadelphia. The distance was but 16 miles which was pie for Ray. Probably an ordinary camel driver [illegible] at least 25 miles, for El Ouafi could not show his best wares at the shorter distance.

The next race was at 20 miles, in Detroit, and again Joie grabbed first money. On Sunday night they plodded 16 miles in Chicago, and again Ray won. This made the score 3 to 2 in favor of the American entry.

RACE AGAIN

They meet again next Saturday night in the Boston Garden, and El Ouafi's opinion of the situation is summed up in the following telegram received yesterday by Sheldon H. Fairbanks, manager of the Boston Garden:

I have been forced to race Joie Ray at his distances, but I will run in Boston at my own full Marathon distance, at which I hold the world championship, and will win sure. Will arrive with Trainer Quilgars Tuesday night. (Signed) El Ouafi.

Hagen to Captain U. S. Ryder Cup Team

Cleveland, Nov. 21 (AP)—Walter Hagen, defeated recently as national professional golf champion, will captain the American Ryder Cup team of United States golf pros when it invades England next spring for its biennial battle with Great Britain's best.

This honor went to Hagen when Leo Diegel, present title holder, indorsed for the captaincy at the final session of the National Golfers Association's annual meeting here, demurred in favor of Hagen, who headed the contingent which trimmed the Britons in this country last year.

"I appreciate the honor," Diegel told his contemporaries, "but I think Walter is much the better man for that job."

The association also recommended a list of 12 leading professionals from which the American team, numbering 10, will be selected. Besides Hagen and Diegel they are Gene Sarazen, Joe Turnesa, Johnny Farrell, William Klein, Billy Burke and John Golden, all of New York; Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo.; Al Espinosa, Chicago; Ed Dudley, Los Angeles and Al Watrous of Grand Rapids, Mich.

The selections will be made next April and the team will leave for England early in May, the exact time depending upon the date of the British open tournament.

Atlanta, Ga., was selected as next year's meeting place.

Eagles' Best Team to Start Against Conn. Aggies

FARMERS HAVE GOOD ELEVEN

Charley Murphy Fighting for "All" Berth at End; Is Best Wingman in East This Year

By JOHN B. GILLOOLY

Joe McKenney's best assortment of golden-jerseyed football players will scamper on the Fenway turf when the Boston College eleven lines up against the Connecticut Aggies.

Coach McKenney realizes that the Aggies have a good team and he is not holding the game lightly. He expects his team to win, but cannot see how his outfit can romp over an eleven whose goal line has not been crossed this fall.

His plans are to give the Aggies all the B. C. artillery at the start and to yank his stars if the Farmers yield to the Eagles assault. But the B. C. first team will remain in the contest until the victory has been tucked away in the ice chest.

There is always the big risk of dropping a pre-major game tussle. It has happened to the best college teams. And the Aggies, who haven't been scored on this fall, seems to be the sort of an outfit that might turn this trick.

Charley Murphy and John Dixon, ends; Warren McGuirk and Pete Herman, tackles; Don Sheehan and George Wilczewski, guards, and Bernie Kilroy, center, will start in the line. Al Weston, Paddy Creedon, Tom Smith and Joe Mirley will do the backfield work. And this is the best team at the Heights.

EAGLES POLISH OFFENSE

Boston College is brightening up its offense this week. All the plays that have been interspersed through the attack this season will be cultivated. The laterals, forwards and running plays will all come in for a bit of polish.

This work isn't being done simply to overcome the invading Aggies. There's a Holy Cross motive buried therein. For there's only one way in which B. C. can cop the annual epic and that's by shattering the Purple defense.

Holy Cross has a wonderful line, as it displayed in the game with Harvard. It hasn't any noticeable threat in its offense. Boston College has a line that can match and probably outmatch the Purple wall. But it's the B. C. offense, Weston and Creedon, that's going to spell victory or defeat against the Crusaders.

As the Holy Cross game nears the interest is getting at a red hot pitch. Tickets are going like gilt-edge bonds. For the first time in some few B. C.-H. C. pastimes the speculators are going to cash in. For the tickets will carry a high value on this particular occasion.

A public sale of 10,000 ducats will start tomorrow morning. The rest of the tickets have been dispensed to the student and alumni bodies of both Jesuit institutions.

MURPHY GETS ATTENTION

One boy on the Boston College eleven who will bear a bit of attention in the final two games of the Eagle program is Charley Murphy. He'll be winding up a sensational season in a bid for all-American fame.

It seems right now that the B. C. wingman has the best chance of any of the members of Joe McKenney's organization. This Harpster person of Carnegie Tech is fading Al Weston, while Capt. Warren McGuirk, the third All prospect at the Heights, is neck and neck with a half dozen tackles, and his chances are up to the fates.

But all the sports writers who have seen Charley Murphy in action will step right up and put in a boost for him. He's the smartest, fastest and most agile end in the East. He holds the punt-blocking record of the country and has scored four touchdowns by catching forward passes, as well as paving the way for many more.

Murphy isn't one of those big robust boys who breaks the opposition into bits. He's far from the toughest man on the B. C. team. But what he lacks in brawn he makes up in brains.

Al Cullen of Fordham is the only man who has dented Murphy's wing this fall. He scored Fordham's one touchdown against B. C. by skirting the Eagle's right end. But, at that, Murphy got him after he had gone three yards.

Aggies Drill Hard for Tilt With Eagles

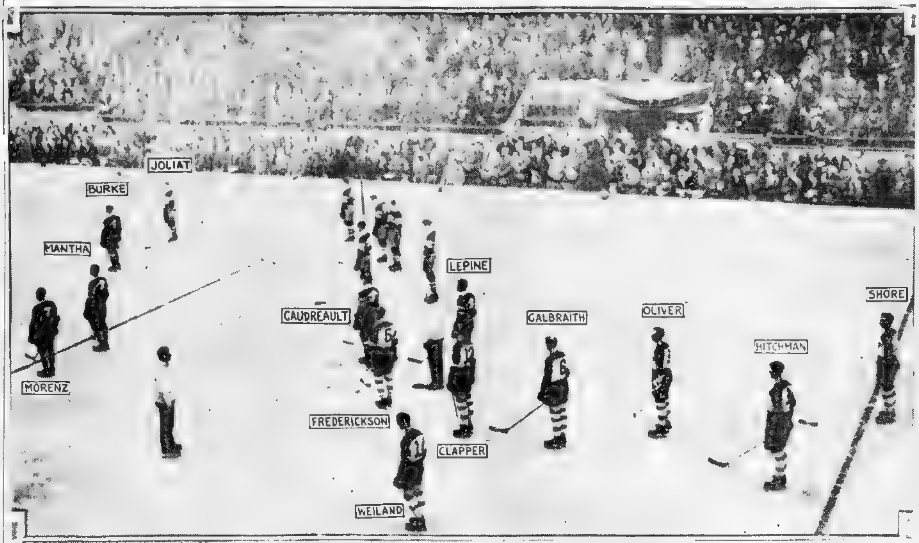
Storrs, Ct., Nov 21—Connecticut Aggie squad had an intensive practice in preparation for its game with Boston College at Fenway Park.

Coach Sumner A. Dole sent the first two teams through a stiff session tackling the dummy and in the breaking up of forward pass plays.

Fisher, sophomore halfback, was the only casualty of the Rhode Island game, but he will be out today after a couple of days' rest. Some new plays will be given the second team today, followed by the last scrimmage of the year.

The Aggies today stand out as the only unscored upon eleven in the country, having beaten such elevens as Wesleyan, Vermont and Rhode Island by large scores.

NOTES OF NATIONAL ANTHEM BLOW LID OFF ICE SEASON



WAITING FOR ACTION TO START ON SHINING RINK

Sonnenberg Is Ready For Stasiak Bout

Gus Sonnenberg, the human torpedo, is ready for his first important match of the current wrestling season.

Tomorrow night, Dynamite Gus, most colorful of all the wrestlers, will meet Stanley Stasiak, the lion of Poland, in a two falls out of three finish match at the Arena. The bout will feature the biggest wrestling show of the season, and will be staged under the direction of Paul Bowser.

Stasiak believes that he is big enough and experienced enough to toss Sonnenberg into the crowd, but [illegible] during of the mob. [illegible] by the money and [illegible] to 3 or possibly a 10 [illegible] over the huge Pole.

The bout will be the finish of a [illegible] fight that started in the Arena some weeks ago, on the night of the Burke testimonial. For [illegible], Sonnenberg and Stasiak [illegible] the great crowd with [illegible] battle, and at the conclusion when the match was called a draw a re-match between the pair was [illegible].

STASIAK GREAT SHOWMAN

Stasiak is one of the best showmen on the mat. He has been a headliner here for years, and apparently the crowds never tire of his mannerisms. Big Stanley is probably the most booed man in the world, but like Jack Sharkey, he thrives on his unpopularity.

Both Stasiak and Sonnenberg are in superb condition. Stasiak has been training before large crowds at Toland's Gymnasium every day, and will wind up his preliminary work there this afternoon with a [illegible] session.

Sonnenberg has kept in condition by playing football twice a week and wrestling afternoons in Providence. He will be prepared to flash his flying tackle tomorrow night, for he proved to himself in the 15-[illegible] battle with Stasiak that the giant from Poland is not hard to reach with a flying tackle.

The semi-final bout between Joe Malcewicz of Utica, N. Y., and Farmer George McLeod of California should be a brilliant bout. Malcewicz and McLeod expect to play leading roles in Bowser's heavyweight elimination tournament to discover a logical contender for Strangler Lewis' heavyweight title, and will wrestle tonight with an eye on the future.

They met last year in a savage match at the Grand Opera House, with both wrestlers unconscious at the finish, Malcewicz in the ring and McLeod outside the ropes, so that Malcewicz was awarded the decision. Their bout may even overshadow the main bout in pure wrestling.

STAR PRELIM BOUTS

In the opening bouts Dan Koloff, the Balkan Lion, will meet Ned McGuire of Ireland, Freddy Meyers, sensational Jewish wrestler from Chicago, will tackle George Walker of Canada, and John Spellman, former Brown University and Olympic champion, will meet Tony Rocco, the Italian flash.

The advance sale has been heavy, but thousands of choice seats remain in the big Arena and may be reserved at Bowser's office, No. 333 Washington st., room 803. The office will be kept open until 8 o'clock tonight as a convenience to the customers.

The Aurora A. A. challenges the Cathedral Y. M. C. A. to a game to decide the championship of the South End. Eddie Coster, Talbot 6268.

SHARKEY TUNES UP GAGNON FOR O'KELLEY BOUT

Jack Sharkey, leading contender for the heavyweight championship of the world, is helping prepare Jack Gagnon of New Bedford for the latter's bout with Con O'Kelley, heavyweight champion of Ireland, which is to be held in Mechanics Building Friday night.

Time after time Sharkey has declared that Gagnon will be a great heavyweight, and the Brighton heavyweight is still confident that the Frenchman from New Bedford will scale the heights.

SHARKEY HELPS

To assist him in every way possible, Sharkey will box with Gagnon at Toland's Gymnasium at 2 o'clock today and again tomorrow. It will be the first appearance of Sharkey in a ring since he injured his leg many months ago, and the showing of both him and Gagnon will be watched with interest.

No doubt Sharkey would like to see Gagnon polish O'Kelley off. The Irishman is being hailed as the best Irish boxer since the days of Jim Coffey, the Roscommon Giant, and New York critics declare that he may be the one chosen to fight Jack Dempsey when another June rolls around. Sharkey himself wants that fight with Dempsey and hopes for Gagnon to defeat the big Irishman in order to strengthen his claim on a meeting with Dempsey.

The big Irishman arrived, confident of victory. His first bout in this country, in Madison Square Garden two weeks ago, resulted in a slashing victory for O'Kelley, and in his heavy Irish brogue, he admits that he will defeat Gagnon just as easily.

Laddie Lee and Johnny Curcio, two of the best young middleweights, will clash in the 10-round semifinal bout. Their two previous bouts were sensational affairs, with Curcio winning the decision here and Lee winning a newspaper decision in Portland, Me.

FLYNN LOOKS GOOD

Owen Flynn of South Boston, a young heavyweight, who seems to be the most promising man in his class in this part of New England, is to box Eddie Benson of Miami, Fla., in a six rounder. Benson has fought Young Stribling and a flock of good heavyweights, but Flynn will give him six rounds full of trouble.

The eminent Joseph Hambone Kelley, also of South Boston, will return to the wars against Ted Johnson of White River Junction, Vt. Johnson flattened Jack "Fish" Hardy of South Boston in one round some weeks back at the Arena, just when the Hambone was beginning to take a good deal of pride in the punching power of Hardy, and he will attempt to avenge himself on the hard-hitting Johnson.

In a four rounder, Big Boy Pawson of Dorchester will meet Ray Thompson, a newcomer from Natick.

McDermott Coming

Baltimore, Md., Nov 21—Jockey L. McDermott will come here to ride Pigeon Hole while it is expected that Willie Crump will have the mount on Roy.

Passing the Puck

By BILL GRIMES

Judging from the slowness of the first period of the Bruins-Les Canadiens game, the players must have been caught in that terrible jam at the entrances to the Boston Garden.

Although the management was warned that a record crowd would arrive at the Boston Garden between 7 and 8 o'clock, few expected that the fans would begin to jam up before 7.

Much of the confusion trying to gain admittance to the Garden was due to the crowd being unfamiliar with the new layout.

The crowd crashed through the doors, and at least five hundred must have crashed the gates.

From all corners of New England fans came to witness the opener. Dan Howley, the manager of the St. Louis Browns, one of the worst hockey bugs in either this country or Canada, came on from the Middle West for the blowoff.

It was a tough game for the Bruins to lose, especially when the lone tally was made two seconds before the close of the second period.

The playing surface at the Garden is, by actual measurement, 191 feet, 4 inches by 82 feet, 10 inches.

Of the newcomers, Tiny Thompson and Ralph Weiland made the best impression. Thompson is a cool customer in the nets. He acted as though he has been playing N. H. L. hockey for years. Along with his coolness, Tiny is as fast a thinker as any goalie in the game. When he familiarizes himself with the different styles of the various players, Thompson is going to be a tough man to beat.

Ralph Weiland lived up to all of his advance notices. He is a tricky performer and the exact type needed by the Bruins in center ice. Weiland uses an exceptionally long stick for a forward, but he uses it well and to great advantage. Weiland has a fine flip shot, but he can also cut them loose when he shoots from a wing.

The floral piece sent by Judge Emil Fuchs of the Braves was so large that it was impossible to bring it on the ice and publicly present it to the Bruins. It was a beautiful set, wishing the Bruins the best of luck.

Dit Clapper and Norman Gainer did a fine job on Aurel Joliat. The two Bruins went after the speedy Frenchman and bumped him around in great style, taking much of the steam out of the flashy Canadien forward.

Howie Morenz missed a serious injury by the smallest margin within half a minute after the first face-off. He tripped on the lower brace of the net and crashed into the upright. He struck his shoulder and immediately retired to the box for an examination.

Frank Ducey was using the broad A when he called Cooper Smeaton "Smeeaton." Frank is in for a tough season unless he rushes up on his Parisian French.

Any time an ice surface is so fast that it causes the puck to get unruly while in the possession of Les Canadiens, you can put it down in the book that it is ice, and how.

Marty Burke gave Eddie Shore the well known "hoop-la" in the second period and the Bruins' defense star was thrown heavily to the ice. Burke got under Shore and [illegible] Eddie rolled over [illegible] after a slight lift by the former Pirate.

Unless the Tigers show a reversal of form, Manager Eddie Powers will experiment with his cohorts. The Bengals' outer defense is not suitable for the type of hockey played in the Can.-Am. League and Powers may shift Mackay and Oatman to the wings and drop Loucks and Manning to the defense.

Forward line play is new to Johnny Loucks, while Sonny Manning is one of the [illegible] will step into an opponent. Mackay and Oatman are fast and the latter is a fine combination player, who could be relied upon to get some teamwork into the attack.

McNeeley to Battle on Hub Ring Team

Tom McNeeley, N. E. 175 pound champion has been selected as the first member of the Boston amateur boxing team, which will face the cream of two nations at the first big simon pure feature of the season to be staged in the Hub.

Boston boxers will meet the ring stars of Toronto, Buffalo and Philadelphia in five classes in the big tournament to be conducted by the New England Association of the A. A. U. Tom Kanaly, who so successfully conducted the national championships here has charge of the approaching tournament which indicates that this event will be a big success.

The boxers of four cities will compete in the 126, 135, 147, 160 and 175 pound classes while there will be two open divisions, [illegible] and [illegible] pounds and it is expected that the [illegible] will make [illegible] in these divisions.

WORCESTER A. A. STARTS FIFTH COURT SEASO

Oyster Cocktail—Arrange 4 to 8 oysters for each person in a cocktail glass. Combine 1 cup tomato catsup, ½ cup lemon juice, 3 tbsps chili sauce, 4 drops tabasco sauce, ½ tsp salt, ⅛ tsp pepper; chill thoroughly and pour over the oysters.

Cranberry Cocktail—Heat ¾ cup pineapple sirup, ¾ cup cranberry sauce, 1 tbsp. sugar and 1 tbsp. lemon juice to boiling and simmer until the cranberry sauce is entirely melted. Chill. Arrange 1½ cups diced pineapple and 1 cup diced banana in cocktail glasses and pour the sauce over the fruit.

Cherry and Almond Cocktail—Drain a can of light colored, sweet cherries into a saucepan, color a rich red with vegetable coloring matter and simmer 3 minutes. Add ¼ cup [illegible] ¼ cup [illegible] maraschino cherry [illegible]. Then cut slits in each cherry and remove pits. [illegible] almonds [illegible] lengthwise and in [illegible]. Place cherries [illegible] in cocktail glasses with the nut ends protruding upward like acorns. Pour the sirup over them and chill in the ice box.

Shrimp Cocktail—Mix the strained juice of half a lemon, ½ tsp [illegible] sugar, 8 drops tabasco sauce, ½ tsp chilled horseradish, ½ tsp [illegible] sauce and ½ cup minced celery. [illegible] can of shrimps in the ice box to chill. Arrange chilled shrimps around [illegible] inside of the cocktail glass [illegible] the center with the sauce [illegible] and serve.

[illegible] Cocktail—Drain [illegible] one number 1 can of apricots [illegible] cup diced [illegible]. Arrange in glasses. Place [illegible] sections of 3 oranges [illegible] around the [illegible]. Decorate the tops with 3 [illegible] berries [illegible] cherries. Sprinkle over 1 tbsp chopped, candied ginger, and add 1 tsp ginger sirup to each glass. LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21—[illegible] [illegible] from no less [illegible] than [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] important role in "[illegible]." So far he has only engaged one actor and that is Conrad Nagel. The rest of the [illegible] will be chosen some time this week, [illegible] with big actors of possibility.

Choosing Conrad Nagel is a tribute to the Nagel ability to read lines as well as to his screen personality. Warners were the first to capitalize on Nagel's stage experience. Right now that experience is pretty important at his home studio, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

C. B. [illegible] is one director who refuses to [illegible] [illegible] worry him. His father, Henry De Mille, in association with David Belasco, wrote the majority of Daniel Frohman's early [illegible] of the training of [illegible] and William has been on the stage, so the "audio [illegible]" holds no terror for them. They welcome it as a long lost brother.

IF sound continues to be so popular we won't have a solitary two-reel comedy without dialogue. Christie Brothers are making the sound laughmakers and making them fast. One of the most recent is "When Caesar Ran a Newspaper," in which [illegible] and Raymond Hatton are [illegible] starred. Al Cohn is supervising.

Then, of course, there are the Octavus Roy Cohen negro comedies, and in the "Melancholy Lady," the first of the series, the Evelyn Preer and Charles Olden of the Lincoln players who have been selected to play the leads.

HARRY COHN comes back from Europe with many ideas. One thing he resents most thoroughly is the fact that Great Britain is trying to legislate motion pictures. He believes it will only be a question of time before the vote of the people will make all these attempts fail. He [illegible] as an example [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] papers [illegible].

[illegible] determined [illegible] French [illegible] [illegible] word [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] for [illegible] just as well. We [illegible] [illegible] I say to [illegible] there is [illegible] discovered so far [illegible] personality as [illegible] that make her the hit of every performance.

JOHN LEINHARDT, a handsome youth with a screen physiognomy [illegible] West to play the lead [illegible] one of our well known [illegible]. He was dismissed [illegible] as a total [illegible]. Was [illegible] Nothing like it. He [illegible] a job on the Fox lot, [illegible] for "The River Pirate." Now he is producing a picture called "Satanesque," all on his own at the Metropolitan studios.

In [illegible] is that old timer, Francis [illegible], Norman Trevor, Florence [illegible], Ferdinand Schumann Heink, Jack Hoye and [illegible]. Reinhardt in spite of his valuable surname, hasn't [illegible] a release yet but with his determination he will probably get it and more.

BESSIE LOVE is all set to go to New York for a holiday but if [illegible] wants to leave Hollywood she will have to hurry for I know several producers who would like to get her for a talkie. "Big Time," the Fox picture, has a part just meant for a little girl the size of Bessie and she has been sent for to make tests.

If she and Winfield Sheehan come to an agreement she will have to turn back her railroad tickets but if she does not remain here to play her [illegible] she will [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Hollywood [illegible].

THE first [illegible] of W[illegible] [illegible] the iron hand was felt early this morning when 40 employes were given the blue slip. They were not [illegible] or [illegible] [illegible] directors and employes [illegible].

[illegible] report that once Jack Warner gets started there will be a further cutting down for he is planning to make money out of First National and to be economical wherever it is possible. Too bad Thanksgiving and Christmas are so near at hand.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

EVERYTHING is being lifted off man's fragile shoulders these days—even the burden of courting and proposing.

Men are growing so shy and elusive and girls so brave and strong AND [illegible]! Of course, a girl COULD wait until a man asked her [illegible] to marry him, but she would probably have to go to the [illegible] and murmur [illegible] between her second [illegible].

• • •

Still, there is the delicate question—HOW shall a girl propose?

Shall she say "[illegible] thing, will you make me the [illegible] woman in the world?"

"Will you let me [illegible] hands scatter your pathway with roses, and lift all the [illegible] your fair, young shoulders?"

"Will you let me [illegible] provide you with [illegible] background [illegible] and exotic personality demands?"

"Say yes, Big Boy, and I promise you shall never have to lift your languid hand, not even to powder my back or put the studs in your own shirt."

• • •

Well—why not? When you invite a man to dine with you, you furnish the dinner, don't you?

• • •

Then, if you are going to invite him to marry you, you should expect to furnish the home, and pay the electric bills and the income tax. It's only GOOD FORM!

• • •

"I am giving you a real opportunity, Mr. G[illegible]—one that you [illegible] [illegible] in your [illegible] is a HOME and a [illegible] somebody to take care [illegible] and guard your digestion [illegible] cook-valet-and-[illegible]. I will take the [illegible] in exchange for my board, [illegible] money. No Thursdays [illegible] off."

How WOULD you "plead your cause"? Because when you make [illegible] you really must have something to OFFER! And a kiss has not yet been recognized as a medium of exchange.

This present-day fashion of getting a man where he can't say "No" [illegible] suddenly [illegible] the "Let's [illegible]"—and then [illegible] pay for the taxi and the [illegible] positively cheeky. Be [illegible] and [illegible]! Or else [illegible] and let a man do his own courting!

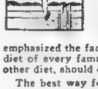
Active People want and need sugar

The "Fuel of Preference" in the body



AN EMINENT food authority recently stated that any person who has a very active body is likely to be always on the edge of the sugar reserve in his body (glycogen). "That is why," he said, "the soldier and athlete wants and needs sugar. That is why the active child wants and needs sugar." He went on to explain that sugar is the fuel of preference in the body, that sugar can be more easily and quickly converted into energy than any other food. He emphasized the fact that sugar should form a part of the regular diet of every family and that any reducing diet, as well as any other diet, should contain sugar.

The best way for sugar to be eaten is as a flavorer of other foods. In that way, it serves the double purpose of furnishing energy to the body and also of adding appetizing delight to other healthful foods. Sugar added to healthful grain cereals makes them welcome and enjoyable to growing children. Think of how many health-giving fruits are objectionable to the taste without sugar. Scientists tell us that we need the daily roughage of salads as well as cooked fruits and vegetables. Any good cook knows that adding sugar makes all of these welcome and pleasant to the palate. In addition to being the best and cheapest fuel for the body, sugar is nature's perfect flavor. It makes nearly all other foods more enjoyable. For health and enjoyment, there is no substitute for sugar. The Sugar Institute.

TIGER LOVE by EUSTACE HALE BALL

The Amazing Story of the Love of a Charming Dancer

CHAPTER 38.

ROALA was unable to speak, in that first wild ecstasy of contact, as the arms of the American encircled her. So many contrasts of agony and joy, despair and hope reborn, had been swirling about her in these recent days that words were wan, weak things, colorless, futile!

Meredith, struggling for a sensible sane, commonplace thought with which to guard against the threat of his surging emotions, found expression first.

"Dear girl," and he paused between each word in his gallant effort to keep his head. "And . . . how . . . did . . . you . . . get . . . here?"

Roala shook her head.

"It is a mystery to me," she replied at last. "But, everything has been a mystery—such sweet mystery many times, since I first met you, first felt myself clasped in my hunter's great strong arms."

Meredith could not suppress a whimsical little laugh, half sad, half joyous.

"What is funny?" she demanded, looking up into his face, so strong yet mobile in the fine firmness of its features. "I love to think of you always with that laugh on your lips and the smile in your eyes. But everything has been so dreadful, so drab and wretched of late that I forgot I ever knew how to laugh."

"It was only a queer little memory," came the answer. "That was my first tiger. It gave me a great delight . . . There have been many tigers since, and I am still combatting them. But they have not brought joy."

The feminine tendencies warmed her voice and her soft fingers as she stroked his cheek.

"But oh, think how happy you will be when you have slain all those terrible beasts in your jungle," she told him gently. "And I know that the great Sahib Hunter will do so. Every one, even as he did that night beneath the spring full moon, when every one else was afraid and left me alone."

Memory of the last day's horrors came to Meredith now.

"I, too, left you, as it must have seemed," he murmured. "Running away like a coward, after I had made you promise to come and give me your answer."

Meredith Led Her Beneath The Strange, Soft Lights

"But now I know all about that. Your man Punjari, who slipped me here tonight, for these few short hours that we may be together in our love, has explained how he came to the trading town to take you back . . . that it was your honor calling and the honor of others which made you leave, before I could see you with my . . . my answer."

Meredith led her beneath the strange soft lights of this odd, magnificent room in the ancient Hindu quarter of the city, and at last sat down at her feet as she lithely, alluringly lay full length upon a great divan covered with a silken rug.

The deep brown eyes were dreamy, almost evasive of his glance, as she suddenly caught his right hand in her two warm ones and planted a kiss upon his fingers.

"And what was that answer?" he asked falteringly. "I know that we love each other so completely . . . yet fate has been so tricky both with good as well as bad that I can never be certain. It is a horror in the soul to remain uncertain."

"I had to come to tell you," began Roala. Then she looked fairly, frankly, affectionately into his eyes. "I had come to tell you that I loved you so much . . . so very dearly, deeply, that I would . . ."

He stretched forth his arms to draw her close, but, strangely enough, she held him at arm's length, with a shake of her head.

"Go on, then, my beloved," he whispered, his fingers tense as he touched the silky sheen of her bare ankle and toyed with the quaint bangles of native craftsmanship which adorned it. "I do not mean to interrupt. The answer is too sweet for me . . . that's all. It is hard to wait."

"I adored you so much, great Sahib and master of all my universe, that I had come to tell you I would not shame you by drawing you down to the level of my miserable, low-caste life!"

Meredith drew back as though he had been struck with a lash across the face. His lips moved but he was dumb for the nonce, dumb with despair and misunderstanding.

An anger, surprising even to him, suddenly overwhelmed him as a new thought came.

He Could Have Slain Them In This Instant of Rage

"Punjari told me that you had seen Terence O'Shaughnessy and Sergt. MacPherson back in that town, after I left. . . . That you had a long talk with them."

He gritted his teeth, now, for how well he remembered the urgence of both these friends that he give up the pursuit of the dancing girl . . . for the sake of his career, his family back in America and for his own self-respect.

How bitterly he resented their intrusion now.

They had been with her at the roadside tavern. She was young, ingenuous, gullible and her emotions fell easy prey to their arguments. He could have slain them in this instant of impotent rage.

"What did they say to you?" he demanded. "Did they prompt you to this thought? Did they tell you this nonsense about my family and my honor and all that?"

Roala nodded her head, as she drew closer to him. The sweet perfume of her thick tresses was maddening. The warm curve of her bare shoulder, so close to his own lips, drove him to distraction. Yet, this answer of negation came as an inseparable wall between them!

"They told me a thousand good reasons why I should not marry and why I could not, either," she said, with a mischievous dimple. "And each reason was right!"

"The devils! Why can't I live my own life!" Meredith's fury became pathetic, as he continued. "All my years have been spent obeying rules, or giving orders to other men, that I might serve others and make them happy. I have striven to reach a high place. God knows, I have sacrificed enough of my life to make my father and mother happy. They were born to their money. I have earned mine. They inherited their place in society and family. I have gone out into the barren places and wrought a new environment. I have made friends out of enemies. And I chose to select my own family, without having to inherit it! That is not so much to ask."

His deep voice suggested tears to see this great white gentleman, so near to her physically and spiritually at this instant, suffering in his soul even as she had suffered, made Roala want to throw her arms about him as though he were her own little boy. The mother instinct suddenly transcended the sweetheart urge. Only vaguely, as she realized, could she understand his struggle in the wide world, in foreign lands and strange climes, ever building, creating bridges, railroads, canals, the means of transport for the joy and prosperity of others. Yet she knew that it had been a battle these last few years, even as Punjari had told her.

"I have built the roads for the joy of others. Why can not my friends let me build the pathway of my heart to the land of joy which is my own domain? Why do they interfere?" He groaned helplessly. "Roala, dear, you must not believe them. What I was before I met you matters not."

She smiled understandingly, and one slender arm encircled his close shoulder, as her silken finger tips stroked away the furrows from between his brows.

"Roala, what you have been before, or what you are now, matters not at all to me. It is just what we can both be for, and to and of each other in the hours, the days, the years to come that really counts."

He had caught her whole torso in his clasp now, half sitting—half kneeling on the broad divan, with the sheen of its silken texture reflecting the blues and pinks and yellows of the soft lights swinging above them.

Never had she seemed so beautiful; never so ethereal as with this little added touch of shadow beneath each glorious eye, the brush-stroke painted by the hand of passionate yearning! And yet the great fire which was in her soul glowed through her lips, her eyes, her flushing cheeks and he knew that above all her spirituality was the flaming humanity of the girl—her actuality. She was no longer a dream girl of memory; She was here this night, in the great hidden boudoir of the Hindu's secret sanctum. Here in his arms!

The world had left them quite, and outside the barred and bolted oaken door lay his faithful Punjari, armed and vigilant to guard them against intrusion during the few precious hours of delight.

"Why did you let them influence you, darling Roala?" he whispered pleadingly. "It is I, not they, who worship and revere you . . ."

Softly she whispered, her lips coming closer and closer to his, as her heart fluttered through its silken casement so close to his own breast.

"I decided for myself," she said. "They could not influence me one way or the other."

"But, darling . . ."

Those tremulous lips were close to his ear now. "I had made up my mind that morning even before they spoke to me that I would not degrade you by letting you take me to wife . . . For I am only a common bit of clay . . . from the road sides and street corners where I have danced before hundreds, thousands who never, while life is in me could be as close as you are now."

"I love you," he breathed, in that dear unforgetable intimacy.

"I would never marry you, my great hunter," and her eyes glittered their lashes against his hot cheek. "But . . . I . . . love . . . you."

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am thirty years old and have been going about for the past six months with a man of thirty-five. I love him very much. He tells me he loves me, but he thinks he will never get married, though he may change his mind.

A married woman has come to me recently and told me that this young man has been having a secret love affair with her for the past two years, and that this affair is still going on. I believe this is the truth.

I spoke to my sweetheart about it and he says this woman is not telling the truth. He wants me to keep on seeing him. What is the right thing for me to do? I shall be grateful for your advice.

IN LOVE.

ASK your father or older brother or some other man who is trustworthy to investigate this matter and find whether the man you have been going about with is a suitable friend for you.

The woman's story may be slander, actuated by jealousy. On the other hand, it may be true. A private detective could soon learn the truth.

At any rate I would not, if I were you, take very seriously the attentions of a man who admits that he does not ever intend to marry.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Another puzzling problem: About three years ago I met a young man whom I like very much. After we had gone together about a year he asked me to become engaged. As I wasn't quite 21 then, I asked him if he would wait until I was of age, then there would be no trouble at home regarding our being too young. He is about my age.

Since that time he hasn't said any more about it. He seemed very anxious then, but now he is going about with other girls, and doesn't seem quite so enthusiastic.

He will take me out quite steadily for probably a couple of months, then I don't see much of him for three or four weeks. That is the way he has been for about a year and a half.

Sometimes he says he doesn't want to settle down for a few years. Friends of his have told me he told them he likes me better than any other girl he has been out with. But he seems so indifferent at times.

Some of my friends say they would give him up if they were in my place, but I think so much of him that I don't want to, if there is the least bit of a chance left. Won't you please give me your advice? I thank you.

UNCERTAIN.

WHY should you give up your friend, my dear, just because he hasn't repeated his proposal?

At 20 he was very young to think about marriage seriously and possibly he did not know his own mind.

Since he likes you best, there is a good chance of your winning his love. So continue to be sweet and charming to him, but go about also with other young men and encourage their friendship. It would be very foolish, indeed, to refuse all other attentions and pin all your hopes of happiness on the love of a young man who obviously has not yet made up his mind that he wishes to marry you.

Don't Be Fooled! Constipation Is Hard to Detect

Regular Elimination Alone Is Not Enough

Forty or more different ailments, many dangerous and some serious enough to cause permanent ill health, may be brought on by chronic constipation.

You may suffer from constipation for years and not find it out until serious trouble has developed. Even if your bowel actions are regular, they may be entirely insufficient.

If your eyes have a yellow tinge, or your tongue is coated, if you have a nasty taste in your mouth, or if you suffer from liver trouble, biliousness, indigestion or sick-headache you'd better do something about it.

Start right in with Beecham's laxative Pills. Entirely vegetable, harmless, not habit-forming, pleasant to take. They correct these conditions, simply, effectively, and with no unpleasant after-effects. Be on the safe side and ask for Beecham's laxative Pills. 60c at all druggists. Trial size 25c.

AUCTION BRIDGE

by

WILBUR C. WHITEHEAD

The World's Greatest Authority

THE Squeeze Play consists in laying down a long suit, usually of trumps, and compelling the adversaries either to discard the top card of a suit or to unguard a protecting honor. To be successful it is generally necessary to play every card of the long suit. It is the agony of the last discard that makes the squeeze so distressful. The average [illegible] will often make a fizzle of an attempted squeeze through excess of caution.

The following end play illustrates the operation of the squeeze:

♦ A [illegible]

♥ Q 10
♦ K Q

♦ 9 7 6

♠ A 4
♥ J
♦ J

South, the Declarer, is in the lead. Spades are trumps.

He [illegible] the Ace of Spades. West must [illegible] his Diamonds, but can [illegible] the 10 of Hearts, and discards it. Dummy plays the 8 of Diamonds.

Declarer must now lead his last trump, and West is squeezed. If he discards the Queen of Hearts, Declarer's Jack will make, and Dummy's Ace of Diamonds will take the last trick.

If West discards a Diamond, Dummy will discard his Heart and Dummy's Ace and 8 of Diamonds will take the last two tricks.

The squeeze is effected only when there is no possible escape for the adversary, as in this case.

In some instances both adversaries may be squeezed, that is, a double squeeze may be effected.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning [illegible]. Write to him care of [illegible] enclosing self-addressed envelope.

CORRECT MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
Will you please tell me what is given for the first year anniversary? Is it lace or does that come on some other year? H. D.

THE first anniversary is usually considered the "paper" anniversary, although many people consider it the "cotton" anniversary.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMANN:
Do the ushers leave my home or the groom's to go to the church? Or do they sit in the same car with the bridesmaids? READER.

THE ushers go directly from their homes to the church. They do not leave the groom's [illegible] the groom and his best man go together from the groom's house. Only the bride's attendants leave from the bride's house. The duties of the ushers make it necessary for them to arrive at the church about an hour before the time set for the ceremony, so that they may have everything ready for the seating of the guests. It is [illegible] that they will have [illegible] the ceremony is to [illegible].

Also it is not [illegible] the bridesmaids to arrive at the church until the time for the processional. Therefore, they start from the bride's home just before she starts.

BAER FACTS

by Arthur "Bugs" Baer

PRESIDENT CAL certainly violated no confidential covenants when he startled the five-tube world by broadcasting our naval secrets.

We cannot understand what made Cal get off his small-navy diet.

Overnight he went in for proteins and armored calories with the result that the navy gained five hundred million tons in one meal.

Nobody will know what changed Cal from a small-navy man to a big-navy student.

You all remember what happened a few years ago after one of those Geneva shindigs.

Geneva is the town where the Red Cross started and the double-cross never even hesitated.

We had a beautiful navy at that time, but that conference flattened it.

Our armament motto became. "First in war, second in peace conferences and third in the hearts of the junk man."

They took our nice navy out like a cat in a bag. We did not even have enough boats left to take Robinson Crusoe off his island.

Suddenly, Cal took a country twist on the situation and realized that a nation without a navy was a heel without a shoe.

Now, when the children sing, "The Army and Navy Forever," they won't mean a boy scout in a canoe.

We are glad that Cal has decided to launch a big turkey for future Thanksgivings.

And after that big navy is all built—

Along will come another pieces conference.

But think of all the fun we will get scrapping it.

Then we can build another one.

And by that time—

Instead of christening the navy with a bottle of champagne—

We will owe so much money that we will smack each new boat over the nose with—

A bottle of red ink.

RIGHT PUNISHMENT

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

IT was a lovely white, snowy, winter's day. Mrs. Haines was prepared to enjoy a pleasant half hour with a friend who was calling when the 'phone jangled insistently.

"Hello," she said a bit impatiently. "What? He has! Are you sure it was Tommy?" A long pause while the person at the other end of the wire evidently explained something at great length and with careful attention to detail. Finally, "I can hardly believe it. Of course I'm just as sorry as I can be. I'll see that it doesn't occur again. Thank you for calling."

Mrs. Haines slumped into a big chair. "Now what do you thing my young hopeful has been up to?"

The friends couldn't guess.

"The lady in the apartment under us, a Mrs. Barnes, is in the habit of leaving her bedroom window up all morning to let the room air, and it seems that when Tommy and the other boys come home at noon they make snowballs and threw them through the window."

When Tommy breezed in from school session he was greeted by a stern parent, who, after making him admit that he had thrown snowballs through the open window, marched him down to Mrs. Barnes' apartment where he said he was sorry and a lot more things which he was NOT.

"Now," said Tommy's mother, feeling she had done all that was necessary, "don't let me hear of you throwing things any more. Little gentlemen don't go about throwing snowballs and stones—" and so on, far into the night.

Belonging to a group of mothers who were working with a University woman, who is an authority on child problems, Tommy's mother discussed the incident at the next meeting and asked if she had done the right thing.

To which the child-psychologist replied: "You did all right as far as you went, but wou didn't go far enough. There are times and places when it is perfectly all right for Tommy to throw things. It is a matter of social adjustment, that's all, and he must learn that as long as he can throw a ball or a stone without infringing upon the rights of other people, it is perfectly permissible."

"Just what do you mean," inquired Tommy's mother.

"For instance," answered the leader of the group, "if you set up a target in your backyard and let Tommy aim balls, snowballs or stones at it, it is of great value to him. It will develope his musicles, co-ordinate desire and muscular action and promote accuracy of aim. And it will do no harm to the property of anyone else. Interest him in archery and take along bows, arrows and a target on your spring picnics and let the whole family compete. There are hundreds of ways in which Tommy can satisfy his desire to throw things. Find them and teach him when he can throw with impunity and when, for the sake of society, for the sake of the property rights of other people, he must NOT throw things.

BOSTON BANK MAN CALLED TO NEW YORK

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Another Boston banker has just been recruited for service in New York City. A. B. Fletcher, of the Second National Bank of Boston, joins the Commercial National Bank & Trust Co.

Charles William Tobey, of Temple, Governor-elect of New Hampshire, like Governor Spaulding, was formerly a Massachusetts man. Moreover, Gov.-elect Tobey was once employed in a Boston investment banking house. Boston's investment banking district furnished another Governor for the Granite State. Ex-Gov. Rollins, a very able executive, was the other.

Charles S. Dewey, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, now American financial adviser to the Polish government, recommends more loans. He finds the stabilization plan has worked well. Mr. Dewey, like his famous namesake, "served in the Navy." He was formerly a vice-president of a Chicago bank. When possible, Mr. Dewey summers in New England, and has a sightly mansion at Jamestown, R. I., overlooking Narragansett Bay.

Vice-President Paul Shoup of the Southern Pacific, reported soon to succeed William Sproule as president, is well known in Boston. He has spoken before the Boston Chamber of Commerce. He has a gift of his own for "character reading." I once heard him say: "A soiled collar, a pair of dusty boots, sullen expression or lack of self-confidence are only a few of many personal items that ruin the chances of a man who is looking for a job."

In January, 1927, Mayor Michael J. O'Hara of Worcester was authorized by the City Council to hire experts to study the rates of the Worcester Electric Light Co. The gentlemen to whom the task was assigned found:

1—That the rates were too high if based on the capital actually paid in.

2—That the rates were reasonable if based on the present value of the company's property.

Thereupon Mayor O'Hara appealed to the Public Utilities Commission, and the case went to the courts.

While the courts have yet to decide the justice, as they see it, of this doctrine of replacement values, on which most public utilities base their claims, the question will be threshed out right here in Boston. At the meeting of the Boston Chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants tomorrow it will be brought forward under the guise of "Depreciation on the Basis of Replacement Values."

* * *

As chief proponent of the idea, Ernest F. DuBrul, general manager of the National Machine Tool Builders' Association of Cincinnati, comes to Boston in person to battle for his new principle.

"Depreciation on industrial machinery, buildings and other fixed assets," says Mr. DuBrul, "should be calculated on the basis of the current replacement value of these assets. The purchasing power of the dollar changes constantly; the current value of an asset changes in inverse ratio to correspond. Unless the depreciation charges reflect the shifting of the dollar, they cease to measure the true consumption of utility.

BROWN Shoe Co. earned $4.60 a share of common in year ended October 31, against $6.24 a share in 1927 period.

STOCK MARKET IS SWAMPED

share to $378, but the other high-priced specialties which took up the limelight in yesterday's session remained more or less secluded behind the scenes. Copper, oils and a few of the steel and equipment stocks were displayed to their best advantage.

Following closely on the dizzy pace of the market in the last few days, thousands of traders thought it was wise policy to cash in some of their paper profits, as the result of which stocks were brought to market in big blocks, to be sold at the best prices offered. Since these prices as a rule were the highest on record, it is logical to conclude that some good profits were taken out of the market today.

Mohawk Carpet Mills was up nearly $8 per share at $53. Keith-Albee preferred added $6. Wright soared 14. National Biscuit gained $3. Union Carbide tacked on $8.75.

Union Carbide joined the $200-club today after a straight run up of $75 with hardly a stop for breath. The Cuttens and Fisher were at work in this stock, with a view to putting into the bag with their vast holdings of Baldwin Locomotive, Sinclair Oil and other stocks gathered in at swiftly advancing prices over the last year or two.

Today's market was notable for its bigness rather than for wid gyrations of prices in any of the speculative favorites.

Du Pont, Case Threshng and other members of the $400 club, did not venture forth in the stormy session.

Reports from the steel manufacturing centers were not as favorable as in the last week or two. There has been a let-down in mills' operations, which is customary at this season of the year; but steel prices are high and are not likely to shrink.

A few of the so-called sleepers in the industrial list were given a whirl in a new drive against the shorts. Yellow Truck boomed along for a gain of nearly $5, showing the first "signs of life" in a month or more. Whirling movements of this kind can always be depended upon to rouse out a certain number of the bears, without any special regard for their feelings.

LINDY TO WED? MORROW SAYS

New York, Nov. 21—While newspapermen were rushing down the bay to meet the Olympic bringing back Miss Elizabeth Morrow, daughter of Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, to question her as to her engagement to Col Charles Lindbergh, an indignant denial of any betrothal came from the embassy in Mexico City.

Ambassador Morrow himself refused to comment save to show his indignation, but from the embassy it was stated that there was not, and is not, any understanding or engagement.

Miss Morrow is returning from a trip abroad. Col. Lindbergh has been her father's guest for 10 days in Mexico on a hunting trip and is visiting the ambassador, his wife and younger daughter, Anne, at the Morrow country home near Mexico City.

Lindbergh expects to hop off soon for a lion hunting expedition near Tampico, he said today.

Orders Arrest of Lynn Ticket Scalpers

Arrest of ticket scalpers was ordered by the mayor of Lynn today, as citizens protested to him they could not get tickets for the Thanksgiving Day football clash between Classical and English high schools.

The tickets are being offered for $5 and $6 apiece, the regular prices being $1 and $1.50.

Of the 12,000 printed, school pupils applied for 4000 and the remaining 8000 ordinarily would be put on public sale, but this year many fans found themselves "out in the cold."

SIX ARE HURT IN TWO AUTO ACCIDENTS

Six persons, one of them a child, were injured today in two automobile accidents in Jamaica Plain, one at Center and Roseway sts., and the other on the Arborway near the entrance to Arnold Arboretum.

Arthur McMillan, six, of Roseway st., was knocked down by a machine operated by John H. McCafferty of Holbrook st., Jamaica Plain, at Center and Roseway sts. He was taken to City Hospital suffering from contusions and abrasions of the right elbow and ankle, and a lacerated chin.

Five persons were taken to hospitals after two cars crashed headon in the Arborway, the machines being operated by Earl W. Cook of Oliver st., Malden, and Alfred F. Jackson of Oakland st., Mattapan.

Jackson, who is 21, Phyllis MacEntee, 20, and her brother Norman, 19, of Oakland st., Mattapan, were taken to the Forest Hills hospital. Jackson had a lacerated right hand and contusions of both legs. Miss MacEntee contusions and abrasions of the legs, and her brother a lacerated wound over the right eye.

Charles McIntosh, 26, of Tremont st., South End and J. Milton Wilder, 30, of Alden st., Malden, were taken to City Hospital, both suffering from lacerations of the scalp and right wrist.

SENATE FACES JAM OF BILLS

Washington, Nov. 21 (INS)—A topheavy legislative program awaits the Senate, while a rather easy session confronts the House, although both branches must enact $4,70,000,000 in appropriation bills.

The Senate's calendar will be so heavy that thousands of bills will die in the mad rush for legislation.

The Boulder Dam measure has the right of way in the Senate under an agreement made last session. The bill must be disposed of before other important business can be transacted. Appropriation bills, however, will supersede it.

The Senate program includes action on the "big Navy" bill which provides for 15 fast cruisers and an airplane carrier, on a new farm relief bill, on President Coolidge's veto of the Norris Muscle Shoals bill, and ratification of the Kellogg anti-war treaty.

GUGGENHEIM TO FLY HERE

Harry H. Guggenheim, who will address the members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce Thursday, will come to Boston from New York by airplane. He will arrive Wednesday afternoon in a plane piloted by Lieut. James H. Doolittle.

Guggenheim is president of the Daniel Guggenheim Foundation for the Promotion of Aeronautics, which sponsored Col. Lindbergh's tour of the United States after his transatlantic flight.

FARM TARIFF ACTION TO AWAIT HOOVER'S RETURN

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Numerous demands before President Coolidge for increasing the tariff on farm product imports are expected in senatorial quarters to be held up during the good-will mission of Herbert Hoover to South America, where some countries are vigorously opposing higher American tariffs.

The United States tariff has been a source of considerable aggravation to South American nations, particularly to Argentina. The administration now finds itself confronted with a demand from the agricultural regions for an even higher tariff against farm product importations, most of which come from South America. Tariff protection, with emphasis to farmers, was the keynote of the Hoover-Curtis campaign.

GRANGES OPPOSE NEW RECLAMATION LANDS

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—In an effort to stop the creation of new farm land by reclamation processes, a resolution urging the transfer of the bureau of reclamation from the Department of the Interior to the Department of Agriculture was introduced today before the National Grange by Albert S. Goss of Washington.

This is the second resolution on this subject brought before the grange since it has been in convention here, and national officers expressed a belief that the policy will be adopted by the delegates when it comes up for vote later in the week.

Speedmaniacs

Has There Not Been TALK Enough About Them?

"Greater restrictions and heavier penalities will inevitably be put upon our motorists unless they stop their INSANE SPEEDING."

So says Registrar Parker of the Motor Vehicles Department, calling attention to his weekly bulletin to the fact that in Massachusetts last week 23 persons were KILLED in automobile accidents.

In the same week, 138 persons were placed before the courts for operating their cars while UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF LIQUOR, and 112 had their licenses taken away for DRIVING AFTER DRINKING.

Now, hear the Registrar:

"The contemplation of this needless sacrifice of life raises the question, Shall our citizens, in ever increasing numbers, continue to be slaughtered in this way? We are shocked beyond words by such a disaster as that of the Vestris, in which about 120 lives were lost, but the killing every year, with unremitting regularity, of many hundreds in auto accidents we regard with complacent indifference."

We do not know what "greater restrictions and heavier penalties" Mr. Parker may have in mind, but one suggestion that has never been given a trial came some time ago from a cartoonist, who pictured one of these insane speeders under sentence to carry, suspended from his neck for one year, a placard reading:

THROUGH CARELESS DRIVING
I KILLED A CHILD

Why not?

We place red lights at danger spots, why not a warning that the dangerous driver is heading toward us?

After 52 Years

One of Boston's Best and Oldest Friends Asks for Help

In Room 705 at No. 59 Temple Place, Boston, Mr. Thomas P. Beal, as campaign treasurer, is receiving contributions to the $400,000 fund which will help the New England Hospital for Women and Children to meet its growing needs.

Mr. Beal is the well-known president of the Second National Bank. To enlist the sympathy and command the time and attention of so busy a man the cause must be a worthy one. It is.

In the first place, this hospital—the second oldest in the country for the FREE treatment of diseases peculiar to women—has never before asked the public for help. That is something, for the institution was founded in 1875.

WHY the present appeal?

Answer: Empty beds and waiting patients.

The Free Hospital for Women—you see it on your way through the Parkway toward Jamaica Pond—began as a five-bed hospital. Its founder was Dr. William Henry Baker, first professor of gynecology in Harvard Medical School.

Since the opening day, 23,781 free patients have been admitted to the hospital proper and 47,259 to the out-patient department.

Twelve hundred and seventy-five free patients have been cared for this year in the hospital, 2,546 free surgical operations performed and 138 radium treatments and 117 X-ray examinations given. There is only radium enough to treat one patient at a time. Should three be in need of it, two must wait.

Few hospitals, be they "pay" or, like this one, free, break even. Needs increase faster than income.

For fifty-two years, the two boards of this hospital have underwritten every deficit; for the last three years, these deficits have averaged $63,000.

There are 22 EMPTY beds, which cannot be maintained because of lack of endowment.

Some of the best known gynecologists in Boston make up the UNPAID staff. Five of them make SEVEN THOUSAND examinations a year.

There is no field worker because there is not money enough to finance a field worker.

The hospital lacks radium, lacks beds which can be used, lacks the means for further cancer research, lacks money for the employment of a full-time resident pathologist.

Out of its total of 94 beds, this institution normally offers 62 to the poor—of every race, of every creed, of every color.

In the hospital proper since September, 1926, there have been 305 Protestants, 312 Catholics and 30 Jews. Treated in the out-patient department, since January, 1927, there have been 495 Protestants, 700 Catholics and 227 Jews.

With the approach of the Thanksgiving festival, you may have been wishing for "something extra" to be thankful for.

Be thankful for this golden opportunity to give a lift, however slight, to such a truly BENEVOLENT institution as the Free Hospital for Women.

The Shyest Animal

Harold White of New York is going to Africa with the Field Museum Expedition in quest of the reticulated giraffe of Abyssinia, which, he says, is the shyest, most elusive animal in the world.

Here's luck to the hunters—but we must question the claim of the reticulated giraffe to the title of shyest or most elusive of animals. Consider, for instance, the claim of the mosquito on a hot night. She is so shy that she is invisible to human eye, so elusive that a human hand cannot smite her. Then there is the flea, which, when you put your finger on him, as the man said, you find he is not there.

Years ago the blind tiger was rated the most elusive of quadrupeds, and the shyest, but nowadays he flaunts himself openly in every street. Yet, of all the parasites and pests and carnivora that inhabit the earth, we should name the man-killing shark to be the shyest and most elusive of all.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—The old Fulton st. "deadline" for crooks is still maintained, at least in theory. It was established by the picturesque Inspector Byrnes many years ago, and any known criminal found below the line was yanked to headquarters.

The idea is to keep nimble-fingered and safe-blowing gentlemen away from the mosques and minarets of the financial zone. There are ex-crooks who have "gone straight" and proved their worth who are given special permission to cross the line.

Indeed, two are reported established in business and are proof the criminal does see the error of his ways. Uptown there is a fellow once handy with the "soup, soap and blanket" who has an office force composed entirely of those who have done their "stretches" and are now law-abiding.

He is a regular visitor to a Bowery mission and contributes heavily to its support. There is a police theory that a man may make a misstep twice and still become a useful member of society. But the third-time offender is regarded as hopeless.

Countless police data confirms this reasoning. Consequently, when a third termer trespasses the district he is in for a lot of explaining and perhaps another voyage up the Hudson. Fulton st. is well patrolled by lookouts from Central Office.

They loiter about shop windows, displaying an air of indifference while scanning the sea of faces for the seasoned crook. Many of them are the so-called "camera eyes" of the department who retain a photographic memory of a criminal for many years.

The crook is usually vainglorious. As a murderer returns to the scene of his crime, he likes to revisit the scene of his triumph. One of the most carefully policed sections south of Fulton is Maiden Lane, the great diamond and jewelry district.

POLICE headquarters seem haunted by wretched human shadows. In the halls are always harried men and women wondering over the why of retribution. It is difficult to loiter around the corridors and not be convinced crime as a calling is a miserable affair.

AROUND nearly every police headquarters is an odd type—generally a wizened old man in a castoff blue uniform who seems to revel in an authority he does not have. They sweep, scrub and run errands for prisoners and are known as Pats and Mikes. The seamy side of life has not hardened them. They are kindly and extremely garrulous.

THE occupational disease of chauffeurs, especially drivers of private cars, is indigestion. They are forced to gulp down food on the fly to be ready when they are wanted.

THIS is no great shakes as an item, but interested me. At a gathering the other evening the audience stood to sing "The Star Spangled Banner." A foreign looking gentleman next to me sang all the words. And in broken dialect.

THE dressing room of a theatrical star is being made over entirely of mirrored panels, including the ceiling. I've often ached to know—don't tell me, I'll guess—why stage artists seem constantly to require their mirrored reflections on stage and off. You can keep almost all of them content for hours at a stupid party by seating them within range of a looking glass. Indeed, I believe an actress shipwrecked on a deserted isle with only a hand mirror would not be frightfully bored.

WRITES a Philadelphia lady: "You used to be rather interesting, but the past two weeks you have been unusually dull. What's the matter?"

Haven't you heard? It's my pituitary gland. It isn't working right again.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

ANTOINE cooked a pompano for me in New Orleans.

A pompano sounds like a bird of paradise, but isn't. It's just fish. Just common, ordinary fish. And if I had cooked that pompano it would have remained a common, ordinary fish. I'd have put some fat in the pan and dumped in the fish and thought about a dozen different things and come to with a jerk when the fat began to burn and yanked out what was left of the fish and dumped it on the table. From which you might conclude that I do not get much spiritual stimulation out of cooking fish. I don't.

But when Antoine cooks a fish—ah, that is something else again!

Romance and adventure hover above the range when Antoine cooks a fish. That pompano becomes a poem, a jewel, a song. He uses, I presume, the same fat which I would use—the same griddle—the same fire. But he uses something else which I have never used—he uses that imagination which only Antoine can supply that enthusiasm which only he can feel in the cooking of fish. And he uses the pride of Antoine and his concern for Antoine's reputation.

It is a great moment. There is a babble of voices from the kitchen—a savory, tantalizing smell. Waiting, your spirits mount. You are about to consume not only a fish, but some of the romantic essence of adventure. Life sparkles, expands, becomes jeweled with excitement. And Antoine expands and sparkles, too. He is receiving as much as he is giving. You have paid him to cook a fish but out of that commonplace service he is building a dramatic moment of life. He is making that moment pay him a thousand times more than the value of your paltry coin.

It's a great and rare thing to take your work like that. It's the only real reward there is in work. You may get a thousand dollars a week for some routine service but that alone will not repay you if you have hated that service—if is has not stirred and warmed you. Life is the most valuable thing you have. Each moment of it is lived but once. If you have let that moment slip through your fingers, colorless and without savor, no amount of money can repay you for its loss. But if you can find color and savor and perfume and song in the commonest task as Antoine finds it, you will know the pride and power of a conqueror.

Stop planning, my friend, for the Big Time you're going to have "some day when you've made your pile and can retire." Have your Big Time now—WHILE YOU'RE COOKING YOUR FISH.

Butter and Egg Man

by Herbert Kaufman

All the great retailers started as small storekeepers, or began their mercantile careers with ladder-bottom jobs.

Wanamakers, Gimbels, Marshall Fields, Saks, the Woolworth and Penny chains are alike graduates of jerkwater "emporiums," peddlers' packs or salary savings.

An immigrant lad built the great May organization.

Harry Selfridge, once an errand boy, is London's merchant prince.

The foundations of half the establishments on Fifth Avenue and Michigan Boulevard were laid in obscure back streets. And many another millionaire is in the making at the Bronx end of Broadway.

Let's meet one of them now and watch his pin feathers as they sprout.

He's a butter and egg dealer in the Fort Washington section.

His tiny shop, smaller than a hotel room, opens at seven and closes at midnight. So he crowds two days' selling into one day's overhead.

He handles a thousand dollars' worth of eggs a week. There are no regular discounts in the egg trade, but he gets one per cent off, for cash on delivery—which puts $520 a year in his pockets and goes to show how fast mickles grow to muckles.

Every afternoon he scours the wholesale districts, where spot payment is a perpetual card of admission, and always manages to find some odd lot on the bargain block to use as a window teaser.

Today his fishing lines may be baited with a fine old Stilton cheese; tomorrow with a bargain batch of French sardines or Astrakhan caviar. He buys carefully and sells cheap—therefore fast.

Dust never collects on low prices, so his stocks are always fresh and prime.

He has learned the fundamental law of successful merchandising—to keep capital turning. The dollar that earns the most isn't the dollar that hangs around the shelf waiting for 50 per cent, but the dollar that goes to market oftenest and earns a few pennies on every trip.

He's a student in the College of Action, studying commercial methods under Professor Experience, the world's best educator.

He's a little man who's practising the tricks of Big Business, from the very start.

He's learning efficiency golf, on a twelve by twelve course and getting a swing that will later qualify him for medal play.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

If little labor, little are our gains;
Man's fortunes are according to his pains. —Herrick.

Many strokes, though with a little axe,
Hew down and fell the hardest-timber'd oak.
—Shakespeare

Blessed is he who has found his work; let him ask no other blessedness.—Carlyle.

He cannot be strict in judging, who does not wish others to be strict in judging him.—Cicero.

The same sun which gilds all nature, and exhilarates the whole creation, does not shine on disappointed ambition.—Burke.

A thing may look specious in theory, and yet be ruinous in practice; a thing may look evil in theory, and yet be in practice excellent.—Burke.

As a field, however fertile, cannot be fruitful without cultivation, so it is with a mind without learning. —Cicero.

Cheerfulness is the principal ingredient in the composition of health. Murphy.

Come what come may,
Time and the hour runs through the roughest day.
—Shakespeare.

A very great part of the mischiefs that vex this world arise from words.—Burke.

Law is the last result of human wisdom acting upon human experience for the benefit of the public.—Johnson.

Boston American's Policies For Boston-New England

FOR BOSTON:

1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

FOR NEW ENGLAND:

1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods
